MAX' SPINE HURT!

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, June 23—Maxie Schmeling, German pretender to the heavyweight title, who was battered senseless by Joe Louis in the Yankee Stadium last night, suffered a serious spinal injury that will confine him to the hospital for ten days.

Schmeling, however, said he was determined to sail for his homeland July 2. Thus the fallen pugilistic idol of all Germany will be taken to the boat in an ambulance.

Victim of the sledge hammer blows of the Brown Bomber in the shortest heavyweight fight in history, two minutes and four seconds, Schmeling was rushed to Polyclinic Hospital early today where X-rays revealed the fallen a fracture of the challenger suffered

Conant Gives 2213 Degrees

Amid stately ritual almost three centuries old, President James B. Conant of Harvard today awarded 2200 degrees in course to students of the University and conferred 13 honorary degrees on noted personages of three countries.

The Master of Arts degree was the academic honor bestowed upon Walter E. Disney, world-famed creator of animated motion picture cartoons.

In the citation which accompanied the award, President Conant described him as:

"A magician who has created a modern dwelling for the Muses; his hand controls a multitude of elfish animals who charm all humans by their mirth."

SHOWER OF DEGREES

It was the second honorary degree for Disney in as many days from an outstanding university. Yesterday Yale conferred upon him a similar award.

A fortnight ago University of Southern California gave him the accolade.

Others receiving honors at the hands of President Conant were the governor-general of Canada, John Buchan, Baron Tweedsmuir; Gunnar Myrdal, member of the Swedish Senate, and President Charles Seynor of Yale.

Mrching in the academic parade in cap and gown, military uniform and formal attire were the officers and faculty of the university, Governor Hurley, Lieutenant-Governor Kelly, the justices of the Massachusetts supreme and superior courts, Mayors Tobin of Boston and Lyons of Cambridge, officers of the Army and Navy, dignitaries of the church, candidates for degrees, alumni and guests.

SHERIFF STARTS IT

Bowing to age-old tradition, the actual graduation exercises were opened by the high sheriff of Middlesex county, Joseph M. McElroy. Garbed in the ancient trappings of office, he struck the platform thrice with his saber, saying, "The meeting will come to order."

Dean Willard L. Sperry of the Harvard Divinity School, chairman of the Harvard board of preachers, offered prayer, and the University Choir, directed by Prof Archibald T. Davison, sang "Ecce Panis Angelorum."

A striking military touch was given to the commencement ceremonies by the arrival of Gov. Hurley with his escort of Lancers.

MORGAN MARCHES

With a fanfare of trumpets they announced his presence in Harvard square, when he had ridden by automobile from Beacon Hill. The Lancers did not enter the yard, but the governor was accompanied within the gates by his personal military staff.

Prominent among the marchers in the parade to the quadrangle were J. Pierpont Morgan, A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard, and U. S. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.

Disney, garbed in cap and gown, was escorted in the procession by Professor Arthur Pope of the university staff.

U. S. Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy did not attend the graduation ceremonies although his son, Joseph P., Jr., received a cum laude degree. The ambassador was resting at his summer home in Hyannisport.

BRIDEGROOMS ABSENT

Two graduates of note were also missing from the exercises. They were John Roosevelt, son of the President, and Marshall Field, Jr., scion of the wealthy Chicago family.

Young Roosevelt is honeymooning with his bride, the former Anne Lindsay Clark of Nahant, at Campobello, N. F., while Field is on a honeymoon trip to Europe with his bride, the former Miss Joanne Bass of New Hampsire.

At the conclusion of the commencement ceremonies, the recipients of the honorary degrees, together with Governor Hurley and Mayors Tobin and Lyons were guests of honor at a luncheon given by President Conant.

NEW STYLE IN GOWNS

A new type of academic gown was worn today by both students and alumni. It is a shorter gown, open at the front.

While official, it was not compulsory, so both old and new mingled in the parade through the yard.

The afternoon ceremonies include a procession of members of the Harvard Alumni Association. The parade will be under the direction of Alan J. Lowrey, '13, of San Francisco, chief marshal of the 25th-year class.

These exercises, at which Governor Hurley, President Conant and the honorary degree recipients will speak, will be broadcast to Harvard men all over the world by short wave.

LORD TWEEDSMUIR JOS. P. KENNEDY, JR.

HONORED—Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada, and Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., son of America's London ambassador, were two to receive degrees at Harvard today.

Last Service For Graduates

Harvard College graduates attended their last church service together in Memorial Chapel this morning.

Dean Willard L. Sperry of Harvard Divinity School, chairman of the Harvard board of preachers, delivered the traditional chapel valedictory.

Hurley Escort Ties Up Traffic

Harvard's Commencement had Boston repercussions today, as hundreds of fuming autoists were held up on Beacon street to permit passage of Governor Hurley and his escort, Harvard-bound.

Since the escort, in this instance, included men, guns and caissons of Battery B, 101st Field Artillery, Beacon Hill was closed to traffic for a considerable period.

A special detail of police kept the governor's way cleared and stood at smart attention as he passed with his impressive retinue, decreed by Harvard tradition.

TOBIN FETES SOLONS

Members of the Senate and House will be guests of Mayor Tobin tonight at a dinner at the Myles Standish Hotel.

DEGREES TODAY — World, meet the Harvard Class of '13, and Class of '38, meet the World. You are going to see a lot of each other from now on, so shake hands and get acquainted.

Says She Owes $6471, But Has Only $500

Babs Asks U.S. Aid Her Fight

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1938)

LONDON, June 23—Locked in a bitter struggle with her Danish husband over the upbringing of their two-year-old son, Lance, the Countess Kurt von Haugwitz-Reventlow turned for aid today to the country of her birth.

Cause?

BABY LANCE

FILES—Judith Allen of Belmont, former wife of Gus Sonnenberg, ind divorced last year from singer-boxer Jack Doyle, has filed bankruptcy plea in Los Angeles. She says she owes $6471, and has only $500. She sued Mrs. Delphine Godde for $2,000,000 last year, charging alienation of Doyle's affections, but later dropped the suit.

The former Barbara Hutton, heiress to the Woolworth five-and-ten store millions, instituted legal inquiries regarding restoration of her American citizenship which she renounced several months ago to become a subject of Denmark—her husband's homeland.

Bitterly regretful that she took this step, the countess hopes that if she regains her American nationality she may be able to defeat all attempts of her husband to gain custody of her child.

COUNT FACES ARREST

Already, she has obtained a warrant for his arrest as part of her strenuous efforts to keep Lance for her own.

Should the count set foot in England, the warrant will be served upon him and he will be called upon to sign surety papers promising not "to disturb the peace."

Shortly after noon, Lord Horder, physician to the royal family, paid a visit to the Haugwitz home, Winfield House, a stately mansion in Regents park.

This led to immediate speculation as to whether Barbara's frail health may have been impaired by anxiety.

It was recalled that Barbara narrowly escaped death when the child was born two years ago. Her constitution was reported to have been greatly weakened by excessive dieting. Popular legend had it that for weeks she lived on "coffee and cigarettes" in order to reduce her weight.

Lord Horder remained at the mansion for an hour and a half.

During the anxious days following Lance's birth, Lord Horder was Barbara's physician.

It later appeard, however, that Lord Horder's visit may merely have been a precautionary measure or due to a desire by the countess to consult him regarding future legal action.

She was seen walking on the grounds of her estate, chatting with her house guests who included Jacques Brugnon, the French tennis star. His white-garbed nurse pushed Lance about the grounds in his perambulator.

Still in Paris, Von Haugwitz-Reventlow apparently was determined to fight fire with fire and in newspaper interviews intimated his intention of proceeding with his intention of obtaining custody of the boy.

WHEN LOVE BLOOMED—Count and Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow seemed most affectionate when this picture was taken last year in New York. Now a serious clash over the upbringing of their son, Lance, has been reported. The boy, 2, is under heavy guard in London.

Judith 'Broke'; Blames Doyle

LOS ANGELES, June 23—Judith Allen, blue-eyed screen beauty of Belmont, Mass., today found refuge from her financial woes in Federal court, listing assets of but $500 and liabilities of $6471.

The shapely Judith, who married and divorced the Boston wrestler, Gus Sonnenberg, and the Irish pugilist, Jack Doyle, recently valued the love of the latter at $2,000,000 in a suit brought against the motor heiress, Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell Baker Godde.

Miss Allen's attorney, Paul J. Ziegler, in a bankruptcy petition, said the $6471 represented notes she executed for Doyle. The only claim for judgement in the proceedings was made by Thomas McGovern of England. It was for the entire amount.

The screen star divorced her boxer-singer husband in April, 1937, and last September filed the alienation suit against Mrs. Godde.

CRASH KILLS GIRL, 18

YORK, Me., June 23 (AP)—Catherine Guy, 18, of Somersworth, N. H., died early today of injuries suffered when an automobile in which she was riding left a highway on a curve and overturned.

Family Death Postpones King George's Paris Trip

LONDON, June 23 (AP)—The state visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to France was postponed until July 19 because of the death early today of the Queen's mother, the Countess of Strathmore and Kinghorne. The visit had been scheduled for June 28.

The 76-year-old countess died in London with the King and Queen at her bedside. The funeral will be next Monday at Glamis Castle, the storied family seat in Scotland.

Buckingham Palace made the following official announcement:

"In view of the bereavement of Her Majesty the Queen, the President of the French Republic has inquired whether it would be more agreeable to Their Majesties to postpone their visit to Paris until July 19-July 22.

"Their Majesties, deeply appreciating the motives underlying M. LeBrun's suggestion, have gladly accepted it."

Earlier King George had decreed that only family mourning, not court mourning, should be observed for the countess.

The Countess, wife of the Earl of Strathmore and Kinghorne, had been gravely ill of heart trouble for some time.

JONES RITES SATURDAY

James S. Jones, for 25 years employed in the composing room of the Boston Evening American, who died at his home, 18 Circuit street, Roxbury, last Tuesday, will be buried Saturday with solemn high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's Church, Roxbury, at 9 a. m.

Conant Lashes At 'Pressure'

President James Bryant Conant of Harvard today lashed out at "pressure groups" which, he said, strive to dictate Harvard policy in dismissals from and appointments to the university teaching staff.

"To yield on the question of independence before threats from any quarter," he declared at the 287th commencement exercises, "is to start down the road which ends in lack of freedom."

Appointments and dismissals of teachers over the past 18 months at the university have evoked country-wide controversy and criticism.

AIMS AT HICKS CRITICS

While not identifying by name the men involved in the controversial issue to which he referred, President Conant left on doubt in the minds of his huge audience that his references were aimed at the dismissal of Drs. J. Raymond Walsh and Alan R. Sweezy in 1937 and the appointment of Granville Hicks a few months ago.

Sweezy and Walsh were offered and accepted "concluding appointments" on the Harvard staff in April, 1937. It was openly charged at the time that their dismissal resulted from their active affiliation with the labor movement.

Hicks is generally recognized as an ultra-liberal and is the author of several books which purportedly hold a brief for the Communistic system of government.

"It has been said by some," declared President Conant, "that in one instance an exception to a general policy should have been made since otherwise the public was bound to believe that a teacher was discriminated against because of his alleged radical views and activities.

"PRESS REACTION"

"On the other hand it has been urged that a certain recent appointment to a minor position was ill-advised because the public mind is today sensitized to certain labels.

"In short, from right and from left, it is frequently suggested that in a question of an academic appointment what is technically known as the 'press reaction' should be the controlling factor.

"No one is more eager for good public relations for the university than I. No one is more desirous that the general public shall be kept informed of what we are doing here.

"But I submit that to make matters of appointment turn on the question of whether or not unfavorable publicity may result is to jeopardize the independence of this ancient institution.

CITES EUROPEAN CASES

"To me an important aspect of each of the cases to which I have referred was whether or not the university, through the regular constitutional channels, should proceed according to the best judgment of those charged with the responsibility, or whether we should be intimidated by pressure groups from right or from the left.

"On this fundamental point I cannot believe that there can be any dissent by those who examine the issue coolly.

"Tyranny in Europe has destroyed the independence and integrity of many centers of learning. Intimidation first and, only secondly, governmental action led to the loss of this independence."

AT HARVARD — Walt Disney, creator of Mickey Mouse and Snow White, gets an honorary degree today at Harvard—and here he is in cap and gown.

3 Bay Staters Deliver Harvard 'Parts' Papers

The three "Commencement Parts" delivered annually by students graduating with special honors preceded the distribution of degrees by President Conant at Harvard commencement today.

The trio chosen for 1938 included Gleason L. Archer of Norwell, who gave the Latin dissertation, "Oratio de Gloria Harvardiana Conservanda"; Joseph P. Healey of Cambridge, who read a paper on "Economics and Public Policy," and John M. Cunningham of Dorchester, who delivered an oration on "Eugene O'Neill as a Prophet."

CONGRESS' FAULTS

In his paper, Healey argued that Congress possesses little or no formal economic background and has little or no capacity to "apply the theoretical tools of economic analysis to national issues."

He declared the result of this Congressional ineptitude was legislation by vested interests and by pressure groups.

"It is a system," he declared, "where agricultural policy is decided by the strength of the farmers' bloc in Congress, where tariffs are adjusted by pressure from manufacturers, where the regulation of industry is conditioned by the potency of the interests affected.

BETTER LEADERSHIP

"It would seem that one of the first essentials is an improvement in the quality of political leadership and a closer correlation of power and responsibility, both in the elective and administrative branches of government.

"We need statesmen and a competent highly integrated civil service, rather than politicians and a stumbling, unco-ordinated bureaucracy."

'Art?' Disney Says Business

Walt Disney, animated cartoon maestro, is delighted, of course, with all the collegiate honors being heaped upon him as an artist—but he still doesn't consider his work art, he said today.

It's a business, and one—he said ruefully—in which he pays most of his cartoonists half the time merely for sharpening pencils.

Disney, 37 and dapper, received an honorary degree yesterday from Yale. Today he was similarly honored by Harvard. He had been awarded another honor degree previously by the University of Southern California.

But he was pretty honest about it all as he talked with a Boston Evening American representative at the Brookline home of Dr. Roger I. Lee, member of the Harvard Corporation, the artist's host.

WHY DOPEY IS MUM

While he talked, Disney scratched off a cartoon of Mickey Mouse for Arthur Lee, young son of the doctor, and inspected cartoons in the Harvard Lampoon, drawn by Vincent Palmer, a Harvard graduate of this year who seeks a job.

Also while he talked, Disney revealed a few of the secrets of his work, including the fact that "Dopey," one of the Seven Dwarfs, didn't talk in the picture because no suitable voice could be found.

He also revealed that although they worked harder over Snow White, she was the one figure which failed to satisfy them.

This was because her lines wavered, and it was this that brought up the subject of the artist pencil-sharpeners.

His animated cartoon figures are drawn, Disney said, with action lines only 1-32nd of an inch apart, and pencils must be sharpened constantly to maintain the fine lines.

"LITTLE PEOPLE" COMING

The "Little People" of Irish folk lore may be characters of a forthcoming Disney animated cartoon, he revealed.

"Some of the Irish members of the Abbey Players' repertory company got me interested in Ireland's 'Little People,'" he said.

"I hope to make an animated cartoon series with leprechauns, merrows, banshees and other Irish folk lore creatures as characters.

"What are merrows? Why they're Irish mermaids. You people here in Irish Boston ought to know about them."

WIFE WITH HIM

Disney was accompanied to Boston by his wife. They were guests last night of Dr. Lee.

"Get me right, boys," he said. "I'm grateful for these honorary degrees and I appreciate the distinction they confer.

"But I'll always wish I'd had a chance to go through college in the regular way and earn a plain A.B. like the thousands of kids, nobody ever heard of, who are being graduated today."

Kennedy Off For Capital

Maybe the carefree atmosphere of his summer place at Hyannis was to blame, but anyhow Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to the Court of St. James broke one of diplomacy's unwritten rules today.

He admitted a mistake!

"I picked Joe Louis to win in the third round instead of the first," grinned the sandy-haired, New Deal emissary.

The ambassador will leave today for Boston and then embark by rail or airplane for Washington.

At the capital, not later than Friday, he'll continue the personal report he is making to President Roosevelt on the present Anglo-American situation, Ambassador Kennedy said.

WALT DISNEY, creator of Snow White, Mickey Mouse, etc., poses for an animated camera strip while awaiting Harvard honorary degree. Animation by expert exponent.

Harvard Honors For Lucky 13

With 5800 students, faculty, alumni and special guests present in Seaver Quadrangle, Harvard today presented 13 honorary degrees to noted personages of three countries.

They included a Hollywoodite, Walt Disney; Canada's governor-general, Lord Tweedsmuir (John Buchan) and Gunnar Myrdal, member of the Swedish Senate.

The complete list of those honored, together with degrees and citations, follows:

Frank R. Lillie, dean of the Division of Biology, University of Chicago; doctor of science, "a marine biologist honored and admired both for his own investigation and for his ability to aid his fellow workers as dean at Chicago and director at Woods Hole."

A DEVOTED SON

John Whorf, Boston artist; master of arts, "an expert employing a difficult and brilliant medium, who catches with his brush the ever-changing light and shade on land and water."

George R. Agassiz of Boston, president of the Harvard Alumni Association and former president of the Board of Overseers; doctor of laws, "a devoted son of Harvard, who bears a famous name; he has given freely of his time and store of wisdom that sound learning might advance."

James Phinney Baxter, 3d, president of Williams College, doctor of laws: "In this university an inspired teacher and successful administrator; now the president of his alma mater; his Harvard past guides Williams' future."

Wendell M. Stanley, biochemist with the Rockefeller Institute, Princeton, N. J.; doctor of science; "a biochemist who has co-operated effectively with plant pathologists; his isolation of crystalling filterable virus has turned a new page in the history of medicine."

SELFLESS ARTIST

Edward Bruce, artist and lawyer, New York; member of the federal Government's commission on fine arts; doctor of arts; "a selfless artist, who has organized the work of others that the beauty of our federal buildings might be enhanced."

Charles H. McIlwain, Eaton professor of Science of Government at Harvard; doctor of laws; "a politician scientist learned in the history of the law; those who seek to understand Anglo-Saxon governments must drink freely from his well."

Irving Langmuir, research chemist with General Electric Co.; Schenectady, N. Y.; doctor of science; "Nobel laureate in chemistry, but yet a physicist; his penetrating studies of solid surfaces have aided both industry and science."

Herbert E. Winlock, archaeologist and director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York; doctor of arts; "an archaeologist widely known for his excavations of ancient princely tombs, now a museum director who reveals artistic treasure to rich and poor alike."

Charles Seymour, president of Yale; doctor of laws; "a sagacious historian of diplomacy; he will write his next chapter by skillful administration of Yale University."

CHARM BY MIRTH

Walter E. Disney, Holywood artist in moving pictures; master of arts; "a magician who has created a modern dwelling for the Muses; his hand controls a multitude of elfish animals, who charm all humans by their mirth."

Gunnar Myrdal, noted Swedish economist, professor of political economy at Stockholm University and member of the Swedish Senate; doctor of laws; "political economist and member of the Swedish Senate; a student made wiser by political experience, a statesman enriched by academic knowledge."

John Buchan (Lord Tweedsmuir), governor-general of Canada; doctor of laws; "the governor-general of our friendly neighbors to the north, a British man of letters eminent in three careers, novelist, biographer and public servant, thrice welcome in this college."

Harvard Gifts Top $4,776,386

Gifts totaling $4,776,386.26 were made to Harvard during the past yar, President James Bryant Conant announced today at the annual meeting of the alumni association.

This was in contrast to last year's announcement of a total of $11,534,056.38, largest since 1931.

The 1931 figure was given as $14,421,755.

Two years ago, however, there had been a lesser total when the figure $3,414,785.26 was reported as the sum for the year between June in 1936 and June, 1935.

CAPITAL $3,103,371

This year's gifts included those for capital, for immediate use and for the 300th anniversary fund.

Total gifts and legacies, received as capital, apart from subscriptions to the 300th anniversay fund, Dr. Conant reported, and income paid as capital by trustees under the will of Gordon McKay, amounted to $3,103,370.95.

Gifts for immediate use—apart from sums received for pensions from the Carnegie Foundation—amounted to $1,418,603.74.

Subscriptions to the 300th anniversary fund totaled $254,411.57.

Dr. Conant's official announcement of gifts included the following:

House Speeds Bill to Suspend Jobless Tax

Legislation to suspend for a year the 1 per cent employes' unemployment compensation tax moved briskly toward enactment in the House today.

Passed by the Senate yesterday, under suspension of rules, the bill won quick approval of the House ways and means committee today.

It then went to the floor of the House with the backing of its sponsor, State Treasurer William E. Hurley, Republican.

He proposed the one-year suspension of the tax after Governor Hurley had advocated its permanent elimination.

Treasurer Hurley charged a huge surplus tax fund was being piled up in excess of reserve needed to provide the compensation intended under the original statute.

"It is clear," he said, "that the fund is much larger than is necessary and the payroll tax, both for unemployment compensation and old age assistance, which amounts to six per cent, constitutes an unjustifiable tax burden on Massachusetts and is one more millstone that is blocking recovery."

News Briefs

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 23 (AP)—The Navy announced today 48 long-range patrol bombers would hop off early Friday from San Diego for Seattle on the greatest mass flight in American naval history.

ROME, June 23 (INS)—Princess Jane Di San Faustino, 75, who deserted New York society half a century ago to become the unquestioned social queen of Rome, died at her magnificent villa near here today. She was born Jane Campbell in New Jersey in 1863.

MOSCOW, June 23 (AP)—Nikolai Ognyeff, 50, former school teacher and author, whose real name was Mikhail Rosanoff, died yesterday. He was best known for his "Diary of a Soviet Schoolboy," which described life in Soviet Russia's schools.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 23 (AP)—Discovery of what may prove to be the hottest, densest and brightest object ever known to mankind was pictured today to scientists in convention here. It is a star, weighing about 6,000,000 tons to the cubic inch, only 60 miles in diameter, but 400,000,000 times as bright as the sun.

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—Senator Shipstead (F.-L.) of Minnesota suggested today that the railroads dispose of 300,000 obsolete freight cars for scrap and replace them with new ones to be financed by the government.

LIVINGSTON, Mont., June 23 (AP)—Flood-producing rains pounded Montana early today, damaging railroad tracks, bridges and automobiles. Damage of $100,000 was reported further west, at Pilot Rock, Ore., where a cloudburst flooded every building in the little town of 300.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 23 (INS)—Bingo, long a source of revenue to numerous church, fraternal and social organizations in the city, was outlawed today by an edict of city court officials.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 23 (AP)—Prolonged strong earth shocks were reported today from Coquimbo, Chilean seaport, and the village of La Serena, a copper mining center in the same province.

Britain Demands Report on Sinkings

LONDON, June 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, answering a question in the House of Commons, said today Britain was asking the Spanish Insurgent regime "for early explanation" of the sinking of the freighter Thorpeness and Sunley by an airplane outside Valencia harbor yesterday.

28-Day Trip On 'Stolen' Yacht Ends

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., June 23 (AP)—After 28 days at sea, a voyage by three adventurous boys in a "borrowed" $25,000 yacht was believed ended today at a tiny West Mexican port 2000 miles south of here.

Lew K. Foote, owner of the yacht, prepared to leave by plane tomorrow for Puerto Vallarta, outh of Manzanillo, where the boys were reported held by Mexican officials.

First indication of the whereabouts of the yacht Tira came yesterday in a telegram from Puerto Vallarta to Lester Elsley, a friend of the three high school boys, Lyle Tara, 17; James Henninger, 17, and William Grace, 16, all of Santa Cruz.

"Wire back that ship is not stolen. We are detained by Mexican officials," Elsley said the telegram read.

"I'll wait until I know more details before I decide what action I'll take against the boys," said Foote. "I'm no Santa Claus, however."

Tara's mother said her son was "obsessed of the sea."

Famed Harvard Medical School professors were turned down as expert witnesses by Chief Justice John P. Higgins of Suffolk Superior Court today.

The men were to have been called in the case of the "Birth of a Baby" pictures that appeared in a pictorial magazine on the sale of which Morris Barratz of Gorham street, Cambridge, is charged with tending to corrupt the morals of youth.

The Harvard men and others Justice Higgins would not allow called were: Dr. Robert DeNormandie, Dr. Elliott Cutler, Dr. William Healey, Mrs. Gladys B. Jones, president of the fashionable Garland school, and Dr. Albert C. Dieffenbach, Newton Unitarian Church pastor.

Circus Strike May Force Show To Quit Tour

SCRANTON, Pa., June 23 (AP)—The Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus, gaudy trappings packed away and its tent city gaunt without the crowds and the bustling of roustabouts and performers, was stalled here today by a strike.

Sixteen hundred men and women—the performers and those who do the myriad tasks to keep the "greatest show on earth" moving—refused to accept a 25 per cent wage cut that President John Ringling North said was necessary to keep the show on tour.

The young executive, declaring the American Federation of Actors had violated its contract, which contained a "no strike" clause, set late today as the deadline for a decision on whether the circus folk would return to work.

Otherwise, he indicated, the special trains would return to winter quarters in Sarasota, Fla.

Today's engagement in nearby Wilkes Barre canceled, the circus grounds were almost deserted, in contrast to the wild scenes of last night, when the evening performance was called off and much of the receipts refunded.

While boys and girls roamed the quiet sawdust arenas, serious grownups, who had paid for general admission tickets and consequently had no stubs, futilely argued for their money back.

Even the many-colored pennants atop the tents drooped in the breezeless, humid air.

Few of the workmen even visited the grounds. Foremen and supervisors fed the animals. Most of the strikers slept last night in the grandstand of the baseball park where they had congregated after the show cancellation.

U. S. Action Due For N. E. Work

Final action is being taken in Washington to allot federal funds to Massachusetts for public works projects involving a total expenditure of $18,491,816, State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley announced today.

He immediately began preparation of an outline of the proposed projects for submission to the House ways and means committee, which is considering legislation recommended by Governor Hurley for the raising of $23,625,000 by a special bond issue.

Massachusetts must contribute 55 per cent of the cost of the proposed projects, Uncle Sam furnishing the balance.

Most extensive of the projects was one contemplating expenditure of $4,500,000 for further extension of the North Metropolitan district sewerage system, now an alleged health menace to lower Mystic river valley communities.

Another project apparently assured of approval, but doomed by a thumbs down attitude here, was one allotting $1,125,000 for building of a new Boston City Hall.

Hague Leaves It Up to Judge

NEWARK, N. J., June 23 (AP)—Mayor Frank Hague's counsel announced in federal court today they would offer no defense to CIO and American Civil Liberties Union charges that he and other city officials abrogated free speech and assembly in Jersey City.

"The defense rests," said John A. Matthews, special counsel for the state Democratic leader, in a sudden switch of plans.

Hague had been on the witness stand before Judge William Clark for five and a half days and today was set aside to hear Matthews' promised motion to dismiss the complaint and to argue several legal points in dispute.

The motion to dismiss was not made.

Hutton Grieves, Count Wrathy

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1938)

PARIS, June 23—"All I can say is that these children have been in some sort of a misunderstanding. It's all mixed up and it's all too bad."

The speaker was dapper, gray-haired Franklin L. Hutton, the father of Countess Barbara von Haugwitz-Reventlow, who thus gave to International News Service the first "family" version of the dispute over custody of her two-year-old son that has stunned the society of two continents.

I encountered Hutton while he was lunching with Count Kurt von Haugwitz-Reventlow, the Danish nobleman who married the Woolworth heiress, in the palm garden of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

They occupied a center table and lunched on melon and chicken while 75 other smartly-dressed diners did their best not to stare.

ALL IS CONFUSION

Hutton spied me as I came into the room and signalled me to join him at the table. He introduced me to the count and immediately apologized for having failed to be of assistance yesterday.

"I told you yesterday that I didn't know where my son-in-law was," he declared, "and that was the truth. I really did not know where he was at that time and I was greatly surprised to see him here in this hotel later in the evening.

"Please do not ask me to say much now. This whole affair has been a surprise to me. It's all up in the air and very much mixed up."

I showed Hutton a cable inquiring about reports that the court was asking a settlement of $2,500,000.

"It hasn't come to that," he said with a groan.

The count broke in and asked to see the cable.

"Don't show it to him," Hutton said.

"Why can't I see it?" the count asked.

"It would only upset you," Hutton declared.

MONEY? NOT YET

Reventlow insisted, however, and finally Barbara's father said:

"Oh, all right. Go ahead and read it. But it will only upset you."

The count read the cable carefully and then said:

"You can deny that. We haven't come to that. We haven't gone that far yet."

"We really don't know where we are just now," Hutton declared. "You can see that my son-in-law and I are good friends.

"These young people are just a couple of kids who have had a little fuss. It is just a little flare-up. I've had the same sort of thing in my time.

"I haven't even talked to my little Babs about it yet."

While Reventlow said nothing about going to London, it was understood he would encounter no difficulties about entering England as he carries a diplomatic passport.

Haugwitz-Reventlow took no part in the conversation but preserved a smiling, affable air until the correspondent of the London Daily Mail, which this morning published a purported "interview" with him, entered the restaurant.

COUNT HURLS 'LIES!'

Pointing his finger at the reporter, the count shouted:

"You get out of here! That story your paper published was all lies! Do you hear me?"

"I say in front of Mr. Hutton that it was all lies. I wasn't interviewed by anyone. If you want to do something for me, go ahead and deny that story."

The Daily Mail first reported the countess' son Lance had been threatened with kidnaping and this morning quoted the count as saying he would fight all attempts to keep him out of England.

"A friend telephoned me from London last night," Haugwitz continued, "advising me not to come to London. But I did not give any statement or interview to anyone."

I asked the count flatly whether or not he planned to go to London.

"I cannot say," he answered. "It's all too confused now. I don't know what I am going to do."

Hutton closed the interview by saying:

"Tell the boys to go easy on them" (his daughter and son-in-law) and the men then resumed their luncheon conversation.

5-10 Girl Sorry Now! Too Late!

WASHINGTON, June 23 (INS)—Countess von Haugwitz-Reventlow, the former Barbara Hutton, today learned to her sorrow just how precious is the democratic title of "American citizen."

Sometime ago the heiress to the Woolworth five-and-ten-cent store millions voluntarily renounced her American citizenship.

Her marriage to the Danish count in no wise affected her citizenship, but Barbara, for her own reasons, went through the legal process of severing her citizenship in the country of her birth and adopting that of her husband.

Today, with reports of a rift between the countess and her count flooding the newspapers, word came that Barbara had decided she would like to become an American again.

But Washington authorities informed her that even the heiress to millions cannot change her citizenship as quickly and as easily as a woman is supposed to have the privilege of changing her mind.

To Barbara's consternation, she was told that she now is just another of the millions of foreigners who would like to come to America.

To regain her citizenship she would have to become an immigrant, even though she might cross the ocean in a de luxe suite on the Queen Mary instead of in the steerage.

It would take a minimum of five years for Barbara to become an American again—just as any alien.

Jewsh Students On Hunger Strike

WARSAW, June 23 (AP) — Two hundred and twenty law students, mostly Jews, went on a hunger strike today in protest against a decision of the ministry of justice which postpones their admission to the bar until January 1, 1946. The decision was intended to reduce the number of Jewish attorneys in Poland.

ALFRED HURRELL DIES

GLEN RIDGE, N. J., June 23 (AP)—Alfred Hurrell, 64, vice-president of the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, died today. He had been general counsel and vice-president of the Prudential since 1925.

this correspondent learned that, in addition to inquiring into the possibility of regaining her American citizenship, the countess plans to seek a juridicial separation from her husband as soon as possible and will insist upon retaining custody of Lance.

She has already discussed the possibility of a separation with the count, it was learned, and in the course of these conversations the subject of finances was considered. Differences of opinion have arisen between them on this point, it was learned.

COUNT FACES "ARREST

Attorneys for the heiress to the American Woolworth millions issued a statement saying a warrant had been issued for the arrest of Count Haugwitz-Reventlow should he attempt to come to England.

It was understood that if he should fly from Paris to Croydon airport the count would be met by his wife's legal representatives and accompanied by them to the Bow Street police court.

There, it was believed, he would be asked to sign surety papers promising not to "disturb the peace." He would be bound over for good behavior and then freed.

Despite various reports to the contrary, private advices to International News Service indicated definitely that Count Haugwitz-Reventlow was still in Paris. He was reported conferring with Franklin Hutton, father of Countess Barbara, in Hutton's hotel suite.

Earlier, British news services had reported the count en route from the French capital to London aboard an Imperial Airways plane. Imperial Airways denied this.

The statement regarding issuance of a warrant for the count was made by W. M. Mitchell on behalf of the American-born countess. Mitchell made his statement following publication by the London Daily Mail of an interview with the count.

In this interview, Count Haugwitz-Reventlow was quoted as admitting a sharp dispute had arisen between himself and his wife over the future of their baby son.

"I have seen the Daily Mail report of an interview with Count Haugwitz-Reventlow," said Mitchell, "and confirm that an application was made at Bow Street police court yesterday, as a result of which a warrant was issued for the count's arrest.

IER ONLY RECOURSE

"This course was taken by the countess with the greatest reluctance, but she was advised by leading counsel that the recent behavior of the count left her no possible alternative if her continued safety was to be insured.

"I know nothing of the count's reported allegations that 'they called me up and told me I could not get into the country'" (England):

"Neither the countess nor I has communicated with the count since the warrant was issued, nor has any authorization been given to any person to do so.

"As regards his further reported allegation that 'this is all being done to keep me out of the country,' all I can say is that if this allegation is made, it is untrue.

"As I have already stated, the course taken by the countess is the only course left to her to insure her continued safety."

Mitchell's statement was issued specifically for American consumption.

It was understood another statement is being prepared for the English public. This statement, it was reported, will omit reference to the warrant on grounds it would be contempt of court, under English law, for English newspapers to reveal the issuance of the warrant.

Poll Shows Roosevelt

Aims Liked, Methods Not

NEW YORK, June 23 (INS)—President Roosevelt is still personally popular with 54.8 per cent of the country's population; his objectives are also favored by the people, but his methods are not.

These are the principal findings of a quarterly survey of national public opinion conducted by Fortune Magazine and published today in its July issue.

The President's tremendous majority, the survey showed, is due to his overwhelming popularity with the poor and the Negroes. Among the lower and upper middle classes and the prosperous, he received little better than an even break, with the prosperous strata strongly opposed to him.

Mr. Roosevelt's personality appealed to all classes, the survey found, with 80.3 per cent of those canvassed approving it, 11.7 per cent vetoinig it and 8.0 per cent undecided.

LIKE OBJECTIVES

The canvassers found all classes, except executives, students and retired workers, approved of the Roosevelt objectives, but at the same time the survey showed that only the poor, Negroes, labor and unemployed favored the methods by which he seeks to reach his goals.

"As for his advisers and his methods (of which the original reorganization bill was presumably one) they are not popular," the magazine said in this connection.

The government reorganization bill, recently defeated in Congress, the magazine found, was opposed by public opinion in every income and occupational group except Negroes and labor of those canvassed, 22.3 per cent approved it, 38.3 disapproved and 39.4 per cent were undecided or uninformed.

The President's demand for wages and hours legislation had the approval of 48.8 per cent of those questioned; 21.8 per cent disapproved and 29.4 had formed no opinion.

Most popular of the Roosevelt policies, the survey showed, were his stands on rearmament and international affairs. Without exception, every group questioned was in favor of these.

ATTITUDE APPROVED

Mr. Roosevelt's attitude toward business met with approval of 37.3 per cent of those canvassed while 34.0 were unfavorable and 28.7 undecided. Similarly his stand on trade unions was favored by 38.3 per cent while 30.4 disapproved ana 31.5 per cent expressed no opinion.

The political significance of the President's popularity was indicated by the survey which showed that Mr. Roosevelt no longer commands a majority in the northeast or northwest plains, which have a total of 191 votes in the electoral college, and his majority has declined in the Middle West.

FDIC Finds Banks Strong

WASHINGTON, June 23 (INS)—The American banking system came through the business recession with unimpaired strength, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation affirmed in its annual report today. The FDIC said:

"Further improvement in the banking situation occurred during 1937 and the banks were in a position to meet without difficulty any strain resulting from the rapid decline in business activity and national income during the latter part of the year."

The agency said total loans of all insured commercial banks stood five per cent larger in amount at the end than at the start of 1937, notwithstanding a 4.2 per cent decrease in deposits.

Year-end loans and discounts were 16,718 million dollars, while deposits were 47,191 millions. Investments in government securities stood at 13,699 millions, a 7.3 per cent decline from the previous year.

Melanson Warrant Issued in Tax Case

A default warrant was out for Raymond Melanson of Springfield today after he failed to appear to furnish $1500 bail set following his arrest on Philadelphia indictments charging tax evasion.

Melanson, C. Newton Prouty of Spencer and Saul Kimball of Westfield, all employes of a Brookfield concern doing business in Philadelphia, were named with 59 others in charges of defrauding the government of $4,500,000 internal revenue taxes.

Raw Material Inventories Still High

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

If one judged the raw material situation purely on surface developments and current optimism, the natural conclusion would be that it was excellent. If instead, emphasis is placed on inventories, a different picture is obtained, one that forces adoption of more conservative view.

The Department of Commerce figure for all raw materials shows some improvement. The latest figure available, released this week, shows a decline from the high point reached last December; but there is plenty of room between the current figure and the low mark set in June a year ago.

Stocks Surge Ahead

The market surged forward today on one of the fastest buying waves in several years.

	Last	Chg.
American T & T	141	+3
Anaconda	28⅝	+1⅛
Atchison	81⅛	+2
Chrysler	82⅜	+4
DuPont	111½	+4½
General Motors	55	+1⅜
N Y Central	14⅝	+1⅛
U S Steel	51¼	+3¼
Westinghouse	87½	+3⅜

The steady climb while general business was retreating simply goes to show how fast production can outstrip consumption once a decline begins. And it is our belief that before a really cheerful view can be taken further contraction must take place, especially in metals, despite recent price firmness.

The brilliant upsurge of stock prices this week is an excellent example of what happens when the collective market mind rebounds from a protracted seige of pessimism. All that happened to touch off the buying wave was a somewhat better than expected performance by important business indices plus a reversal of declining raw material prices. But it was enough to turn a market that would not go down.

* * *

The question now on the lips of observers is "can it last?" We don't know and are not going to pretend to; but we do know the line of least resistance is upward and there is little point to fighting a trend. Current and prospective earning power is richly capitalized at present prices it is true, but technical upheavals take little notice of such things and the answer will come only when the move exhausts itself.

* * *

Buying for investment account is out of the question insofar as this writer is concerned . . . Even granting that he has missed the beginning of a bull market through over-cautiousness there is going to be another buying spot . . . Just as there was back in 1933 . . . When after a sparkling upsurge the list took stock of things anew and dropped back to within 10 average points of the 1932 low.

* * *

There is too much loose talk about missing the boat for our comfort . . . The best view is that this is simply an intermediate uptrend, in the event rails close above the 23.50 mark . . . which is strongly suggested by their upside freeing of themselves from their recent "line" formation . . . We will go along with it on such a basis and on such a theory . . . which is a fingers-crossed bullish attitude

Haney Decries Deal's Optimism

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University)
(Special to Boston Evening American)

NEW YORK, June 23—The stock market has shown a sharp rally. The price of steel scrap has risen in the Pittsburgh market, and copper scrap is higher.

Mr. Morgenthau has said that at present there will be no devaluation of the dollar. Now Mr. Roosevelt says that the depression has not been as bad as it seemed to be. (The parent never believes that his child is bad.)

TOO BEARISH

All this is bullish except Mr. Roosevelt's contribution. His statement is neither sincere nor hopeful. The truth is that business has been so bad that more than 12,000,000 people are unemployed, and the New Deal administration is resorting to hugh relief and pump-priming expenditures.

It is probably true that many people have become too bearish. That, however, is the result of either or both of the following conditions:

(1)—Business conditions are so bad that they can't get much worse; and whenever everybody gets bearish it is time to be bullish.

(2)—There are growing indications that the New Deal philosophy is becoming tarnished, and that more people realize that it offers no cure for depression and unemployment.

BACK TO 1933

Readers of this column know that my position has been that business is near bottom. I have been hopeful of recovery by fall. The weather has promised large crops. Rearmament business here and abroad, and government spending, have doubtless put a floor under the depression.

But we are close to being back where we were in 1933. Unemployment is probably worse than then.

And worst of all, millions of our people are demoralized and misled into thinking that the world owes them a living, and that the government will provide. (Incidentally, no progress is made toward balancing the federal budget, altho the public debt is making new high records.)

N. Y. Candidates Weighed by President

By GEORGE DURNO

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 23 (INS)—President Roosevelt was moving back to Washington tonight for a three-day stay at the White House that had politicians from coast to coast watching intently.

Most specifically the various Democratic factions of the President's home state were looking for some gesture concerning the gubernatorial and senatorial lineup he desires in New York this fall.

The President will confer tomorrow with Postmaster General James A. Farley. Before them will be a decision as to which candidates to support since the death of Senator Royal S. Copeland offered Gov. Herbert H. Lehman an opportunity to declare for that senate vacancy and Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., to announce himself for the gubernatorial nomination.

FINAL ACTION

Farley has state convention will have much to say about the final action of the Democratic governing convention.

In advance of the President's departure there was some talk here all names are subject to confirmation" that Democratic Chairman James M. Mead of Buffalo would be tossed upon the party as a candidate for governor.

PLACE FOR WAGNER

There seemed to be no disposition to dispute Governor Lehman's delicacy for a renomination but Senator Robert F. Wagner, one of the New Deal's ace warriors, was considered by some to need a place.

There is still talk that Mr. Wagner for years has been pushing the way to the governorship and it is understood that he could retire from Washington and some day become secretary of state or ambassador to Great Britain.

The present senator will run one of these days, but whether it will be for governor or senator is not known. Meanwhile, Mr. Roosevelt expects to confer with Mayor La Guardia of New York City when the latter arrives here for the 200th anniversary of the founding of Washington's birthplace.

Meins Sees G.O.P. Gain in Congress

WORCESTER, June 23 A national gain of republican congressmen from Massachusetts was forecast today by Colonel L. Meins, chairman of the Republican state committee, the speaker at a meeting of Worcester Republicans.

There are good prospects of electing three Republicans from districts which now are represented by Democrats," Meins stated. "The critical election is 1938—not 1940."

Spy Suspects Have Confessed Says G-Man Ace

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—Leon G. Turrou, who was the government's chief investigator in the German espionage inquiry until he resigned recently, today declared he had "signed confessions" from the four spy suspects now in custody.

"They are self-confessed spies and they have already involved many others," he said.

The four defendants pleaded innocent to espionage charges yesterday.

Turrou issued his statement in a corridor of the federal building just before a hearing started on an order to restrain the New York Post from publishing a series of articles written by Turrou.

HAMPER PROBE

The articles were advertised as the "authentic inside story behind the U. S. grand jury indictments of 14 German officers."

United States Attorney Lamar Hardy obtained the order yesterday on the eve of the scheduled publication of the first of the articles, requiring the Post to show cause why it should not be restrained from printing them.

Hardy contended publication of the series at this time would hamper the progress of the investigation, which is still under way.

In his statement, Turrou said:

"I never intended in any way to interfere with the administration of justice, but merely to reveal the sinister forces behind this spy ring, which will not be revealed at any trial.

TEAR MASK AWAY

"I have signed confessions from all four defendants in custody. The evidence against them is so overwhelming that they cannot escape. They are self-confessed spies and they have already involved many others.

"All I intend to do is to reveal what has already been outlined, to tear the mask from escape. They are self-confessed spies. It is a duty I owe to the American people.

"I'm not in the service now and I'm performing a real patriotic duty, and no one is going to stop me.

"What I am going to write about has nothing to do with the evidence. There are many people here and abroad who will be tickled to death because of today's proceedings."

Guard Arsenal In Spy Peril

Renewed precautions were being taken here today to guard Watertown arsenal against foreign espionage or sabotage.

The huge arms factory, where Uncle Sam's newest and most secret types of eight-inch guns are now under construction, was revealed as high on the list of New England's "vital spots."

To protect these spots against the threat of enemy spy activities federal undercover agents and army and navy intelligence officers of this area were intensively occupied today.

Orders were emphatic as New York's federal grand jury continued exposures of Nazi Germany's espionage network in this country.

VITAL POINTS

U. S. secret service men and military and naval intelligence operatives were told that Portsmouth navy yard, the Greater Boston district and coastwise defenses hereabouts must be particularly safeguarded.

At the same time the "spy purge" was being widened to cover other vital spots in the national defense setup.

In the Panama canal the government's anti-espionage activities were revealed as redoubled.

First phase of the "spy purge" made public here was the order ousting from the U. S. lighthouse service in the New England district, all alien employes, with exception of those who had applied for citizenship prior to April 27.

LIGHTHOUSE EXAM

The United States Civil Service Commission today announced a competitive examination qualifying applicants for positions as assistant lighthouse keepers.

All applicants must be citizens of the United States. War veterans will be given preference.

The tightening of restrictions at the Watertown arsenal came as sequel to precautions already in effect there.

Guards at the arsenal are under orders to ban visitors carrying cameras or suspicious parcels.

Precautions against espionage or sabotage at Watertown were paralleled at Charlestown navy yard at the South Boston army base at the Fore River shipyard at Fort Devens, at Portsmouth navy yard and at harbor forts along the New England coast.

Rumors of Peace In China War

SHANGHAI, June 23 (AP)—Heavy rains interfered with hostilities in China today, and advices from Hankow said the Yangtze river overflowed both banks, thereby alleviating a flood threat in the Chinese provisional capital.

At the same time the intended departure next Tuesday of the British ambassador, Sir Archibald John Kerr Clark Kerr and the Swedish minister, Baron Johan Beckfrise, for Hankow, by way of Hongkong, led to illusive rumors of peace talks.

Jews' Cash To Aid Nazis

BERLIN, June 23—As anti-Jewish demonstrations of the past week began to be felt in Aryan ranks today, a new plan to confiscate all the property of Semitics and pool it to help finance Field Marshal Goering's four-year recovery program was rumored strongly here.

At the same time, American Jews living in Germany were hoping to invoke the German - American friendship pact as a means of saving their life's earnings.

Pocahontas Romance for Screen

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, June 23.—INA—The most popular romance in American history is the story of Pocahontas and her love for Captain John Smith.

Every boy and girl, man, woman and child has read how the Indian princess saved the brave captain from death by throwing her arms about him when her heathen father was preparing to kill him.

So, really interesting news is that Mervyn LeRoy is getting Pocahontas ready for M-G-M production with the black-eyed Hedy Lamarr as the colorful Indian heroine.

A few seasons ago everyone who visited New York had The Night of January 16 on their list of plays to see. It was a murder thriller, with the audience acting as members of the jury and actually polling their votes for guilty or not guilty. The play introduced Doris Nolan to Broadway and brought Walter Pidgeon back after a long period of inactivity.

Now Paul Muni has bought the film rights and is planning to do it as a Warner production.

Jon Hall may find his honeymoon with Frances Langford interrupted after a brief week in New York. Warners are trying to corral him for "Hearts of the North," sequel to one of the Northwest Mounted stories they produced on Jon. If the film story goes as it may, he'll have to leave the day after the Fourth. Frances and Jon, by the way, will be married in New York with a big reception involving as many guests as they can muster. They are married in Las Vegas by a justice of the peace after a surprise elopement.

But Paulette makes a hit on the screen as Carmen's eye will probably never be out of use without her.

Hunger Trap Set For Wife Killer

CHICOPEE, June 23.—Thirty city and state police officers marked time today as they surrounded dense woods in the hunt for Kazmeri Wajda, expecting hunger to drive the Chicopee Falls wife slayer from cover.

Heavily armed, Wajda vanished in the forest after murdering his wife, Katherine, as she was entering her home according to police. As he fled, Wajda shot wildly at several of his children. Chicopee and Ludlow police, their ranks reinforced by state troopers and [illegible] submachine guns, immediately began a methodical search of the heavily wooded district.

Race Rioting Marks Louis Win Woman Shot

By Associated Press

With many enthusiasts that in some places broke the fingers of police restrained Negroes in the Northern cities celebrated Joe Louis' prize ring victory over Max Schmeling.

The knockout came as evidently that it deadened passion. Even organized cocking and a wild beginning of parades dances, liquor and individual hi-jinks resulted.

In Cleveland a 19-year-old Negro boy was wounded last night by a police bullet and several persons including the officer who fired the shot were injured in a melee.

The gas bombs were resumed to restore order after a throng estimated by police at 10,000 stormed through Cleveland's Negro section, shattering street car and store windows.

The entire police and fire department of Gary, Ind., were ordered to duty after gangs started to celebrate in a spirit of destruction, wounded a white woman. An angry crowd overturned the car and attempted to seize the three Negroes you're in it.

Chicago celebrants paraded the streets with banners reading "I Told You So" draped across their chests. The "I Told You So" chant echoed Chicago pre-game talk during the rhythm of thumped wash tubs and frying pans and tin can bands with a noise reminiscent of the days when Chicago's Negro population was small.

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—The dawn of a new era brought a semblance of peace and quiet to Harlem today after a night of wild rioting staged in celebration of the victory of Joe Louis.

With its propensity for rowdy behavior, Harlem put on a display of throwing and bottle throwing that put a dozen or more policemen on the casualty lists and sent one Negro to die of a heart attack.

More than 2000 policemen were rushed to the black belt to preserve order when a crowd of Negroes, estimated at 100,000, streamed out of beats with the declaration flats and barricades into the streets raided through the streets.

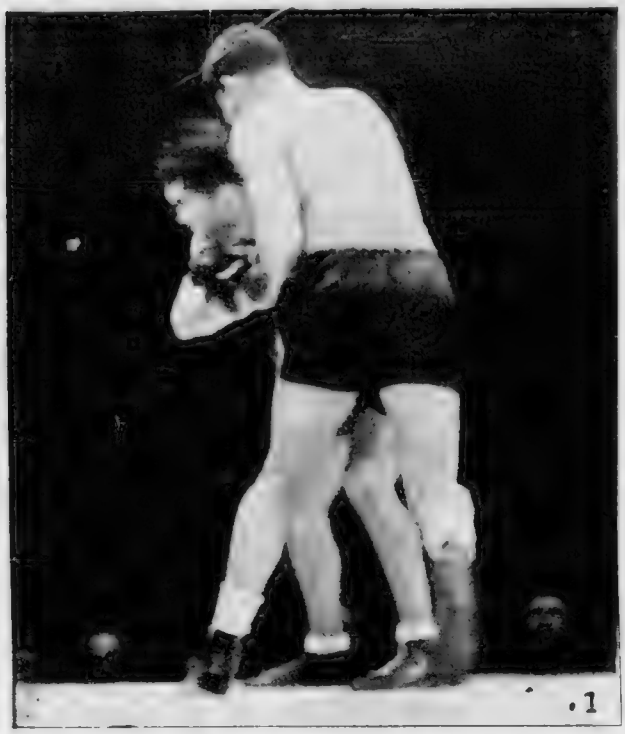
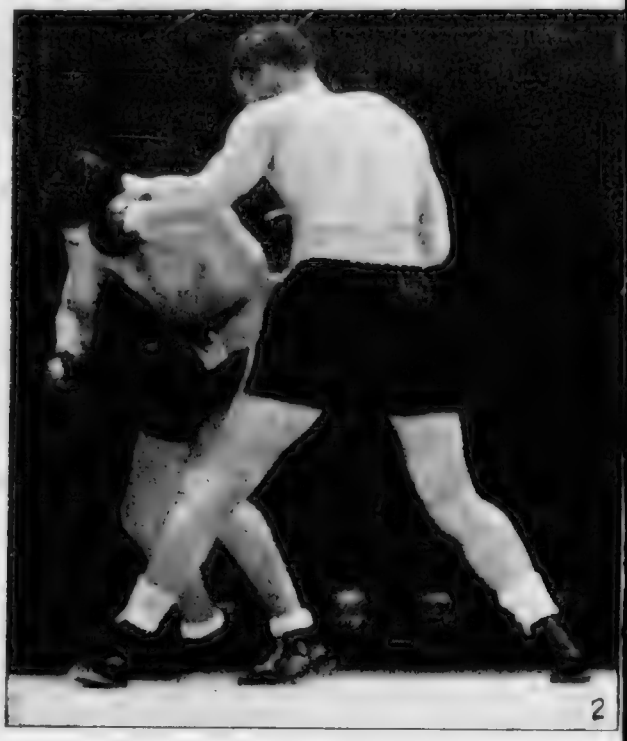
NIGHT SHOT OF SOME OF 80,000 WHO SAW BROWN BOMBER BLAST GERMANY'S BLACK UHLAN

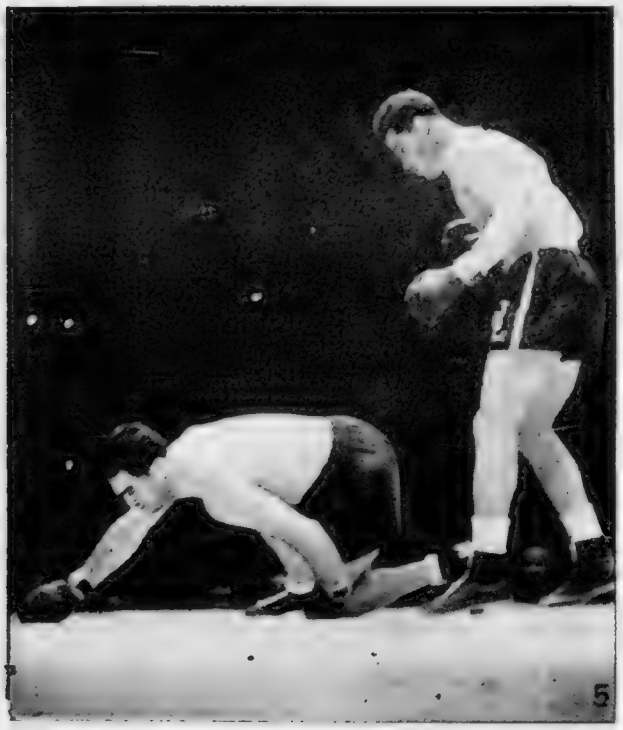
Magic Eye Camera Brings You Vivid



No. 1—Challenger Max Schmeling has risen after his first knockdown. He is groggy and has no defense against Champion Joe Louis' furious assault



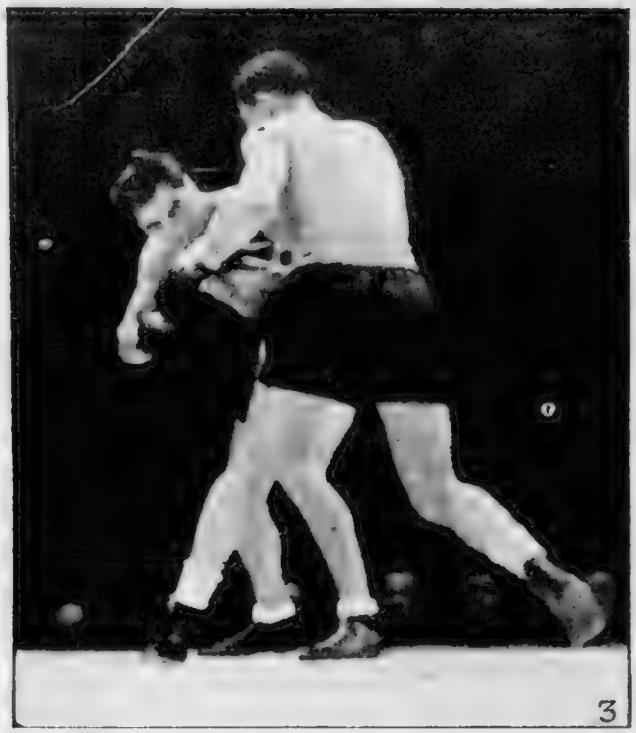
No. 2—Out of the welter of a dozen punches, Joe lands on the Black Uhlan's jaw, and as the crowd stands up with a roar, Max topples.



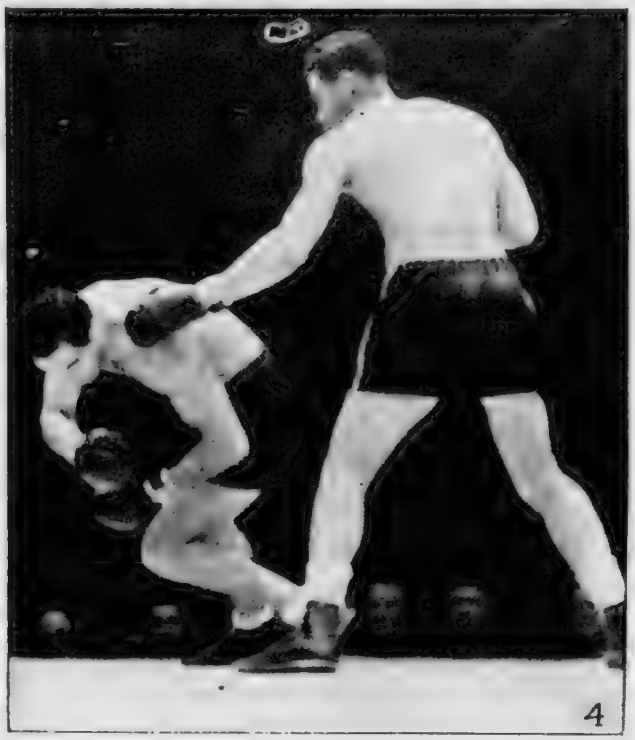
No. 5—With arms cocked to administer further punishment, Joe Louis stands over the fallen Uhlan as though he feared some trick, even with Max on his knees. Meanwhile, the roar of 60,000 people in Yankee Stadium, New York City, resounded in his ears—a different roar from that he heard in 1936.

No. 6—In his mad scramble to collect his senses from the two minute deluge of punishment, Max Schmeling fails to find his feet, but rolls over on his side, while Joe Louis relaxes a bit of his vigilance, and steps backward, ready to race to a corner for the count of ten.

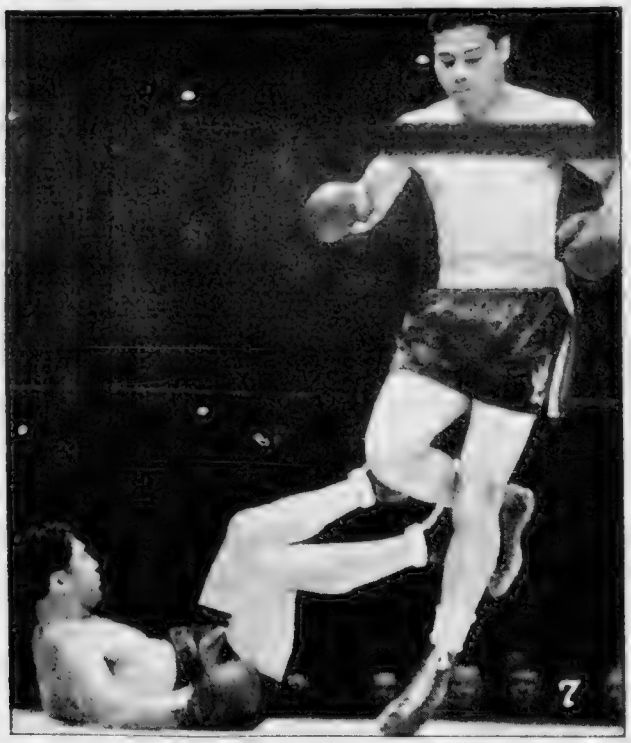
Views of Max Schmeling's Knockout



No. 3—But Joe Louis is not through yet. He sends another left and right to Max Schmeling's jaw. Definitely, the the fight is all over now.

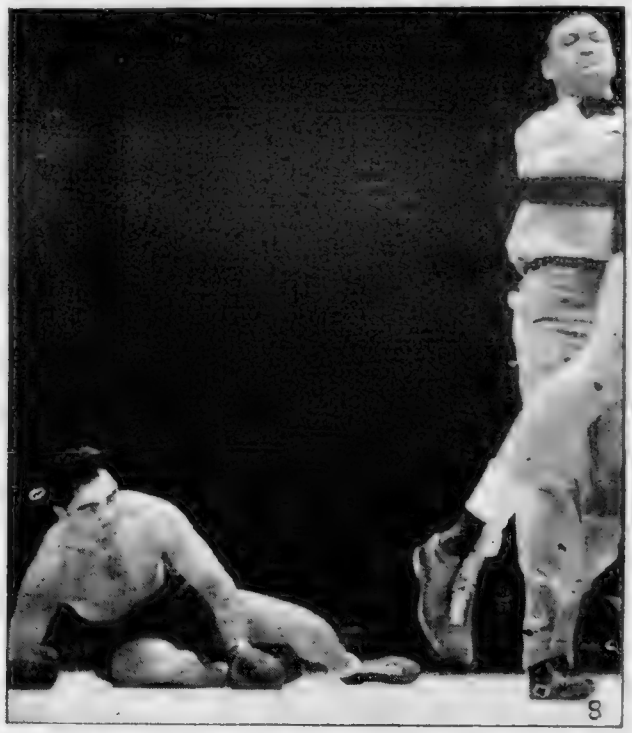


No. 4—The German's eyes are closed, his muscles sag as he nears the floor, but Louis is not through yet, and jabs again with his left hand.



No. 7—Once more Schmeling moves, but this time only to topple over on his back, decisively defeated and knocked out in the quickest time of any heavyweight championship bout—2 minutes and 4 seconds. As he flounders, Joe Louis speeds to a neutral corner.

International News Soundphoto



No. 8—Now, the Magic Eye Camera shows you the end—Referee Arthur Donavan speeding Louis away from the beaten Schmeling. Tolls the count, and the cry of "foul" is raised by the German's backers . . . a cry of foul and a demand for a third and deciding bout between the two heavyweights.

A Beaten Challenger--Max on Ropes

Two Years' Wait . . . For This—Nearly two years ago Max Schmeling last night found a different fighter from the one he savaged in 12 rounds—a different fighter who beat him until he hung over the rope like this within a minute after the fight started. Then came the finishing touches.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Exclusive:

The chief and six other functionaries of an important Federal department will be given the bad news next week that Mr. Whiskers no longer requires their services . . . When the story usurps leading columns of Page Ones, there will be a great deal of expressed regret . . . And the regret will be sincere because the head of this particular department is one of the really popular officials of the Boston district . . .

GEORGE HOLLAND

The tragic part of the impending shakeup, which follows an investigation by G-sleuths reported here a week ago, the past Monday, is that the boss of the department under fire, was betrayed by individuals he had befriended . . . Personally, this department is very sorry developments have happened as they have . . . Uncle Sam's dissatisfaction with the department was occasioned by carelessness, not viciousness . . .

And frequently, as in this case, another definition of carelessness is "taking care of friends."

Miscellaneous:

Morris Newman, father of the Harvard 1935 Class Baby, carried the 18-months-old tot under his arm in yesterday's parade . . . Members of that class also waved a banner aloft which read: "Unemployed:" . . . If '35 wasn't sufficiently unthinking of its alma mater, certainly the name of the Class Baby is an item that will bear some explaining . . . Because Baby Newman's name is Yale H. Newman . . .

Ambassador Kennedy confided that he has been deluged with mail since he ordained that there would be no presentations of American women, save family-members of U. S. diplomats and representatives . . . Nearly every member of Congress contributed to the 500 letters sent him in behalf of a female politician who hails from Minnesota . . .

Word reached an enterprising motor car salesmen that your envoy was not fully recovered from a leg injury and faced another hospital visit . . . So yesterday a demonstration was given him of an automobile model which has an automatic clutch, a steering wheel gear shift and other modern devices . . .

"With one leg you can drive it," the salesman explained, encouragingly . . .

Young John M. Gately, who learned his politics as aide to Senator Joe Donahue, will be a candidate for the House from Ward 16 . . . Mary Hirsch, daughter of the famous hoss-trainer, Max, and the first girl-trainer licensed in America, is hitting it off very well with R. N. Blackburn, Jr., scion of another name famed to the sport of kings . . .

Eddie Mack forwarded two winners to Boston friends . . . One of them, "Play-dos paid $13, and "Regardless" was better than the 8-5 the "systems" generally require as the minimum price in giving a sucker a break . . .

Judith Allen, the Paramount girl who was married to Gus Sonnenberg before she became a star, is paired with Handsome Jack Doyle, is being featured at Leon and Eddie's in New York . . . This corner almost expired from surprise last night when a cordial wire of thanks was received from Tommy Carr of Marblehead, who races horses . . . Tommy got seats for the feast within seeing distance through the offices of this department, via Austen Lake and Jack Conway . . . Generally, you never get an acknowledgment when one of those efforts turns out all right . . .

One of the real assets among the personnel at Suffolk Downs is Bobby Griffin, who supervises the comfort of members of the Paddock Club . . . The Paddock is practically crash-proof and for gentlemen wishing relief from importunate visitors, it is as safe as Ed Wynn's Ritz-Carlton—where the staff can play deaf-and-dumb to perfection in protecting the guests . . .

Next meeting of the Mayor's Field Day Committee will be held Tuesday at 12:30 p. m. in the Executive Council Chamber at City Hall . . . Harry James, Benny Goodman's first trumpeter, is a major attraction of the band and his new recording (just out) of "Lullaby in Rhythm" is a peach . . . James Vernon Brown (who plays trombone for Goodman) and Benny himself, were surprised to meet themselves in the newspapers at a Boston theater the other day . . . The photos were made weeks ago . . .

The plunginest horse-player in Greater Boston today is the owner of a chain of stores . . .

John Hoysradt, who was in Boston when "Right This Way" played the Shubert, is the talk of New York (at the Rainbow Room) with the same imitation he gave patrons of the Mayfair at a gratis guest appearance . . . Mady Christians will play the Queen in Maurice Evans' proposed "Hamlet" in New York next Fall, and Katherine Locke, formerly of Boston, is the choice as "Ophelia" . . .

Charlie Brett, half of the dance team of Brett and Young, and a staunch member of the American Federation of Actors, is expected to enter the booking-agency business in the Fall . . . Gertrude Niessen has scored the hit of her young life in "St. Blue the Sky," a new musical revue which opened last week in London . . . The critics were unanimous in reporting that the American "stole the show" (and in just those American words) from a cast of English favorites . . .

Alien Trespassers!

The Editor Says:—The Boston Chamber of Commerce admirals and Mayor Curley need only glance to find [illegible] of their trespassers on the Atlantic seaboard.

The Nazis, the Fascists and the Communists are ALL HERE—[illegible]

[illegible] of them as the nation's first duty [illegible]

[illegible] IMMEDIATE DUTY [illegible] the new Congress, [illegible] by Representative Dies and [illegible]

AND RID OF ALL OF THEM NOW AND BY LAW.

THE RE-REGISTRATION of voters in all Massachusetts cities and towns ordained in a bill that has received Governor Hurley's approval is a step in the direction of good government.

The step is by no means the best that could be taken. The law postponing the removal of illegal voters until January 1, 1941 is a costly deal legislation. But it does represent progress.

No one knows how many persons are casting ballots improperly in Boston and in other cities. When [illegible] in Boston [illegible] the number was in excess of two hundred thousand.

We know only that there have been many and grave violations of law in more than one major election contest.

Under this new law, the purge should be THOROUGH and COMPLETE. The name of every illegally registered voter should be taken from the lists. That is the DUTY of all registrars, new and [illegible]

Honest voting benefits everyone, none more than the representative [illegible]

THE "DROWNING DAYS" are with us again. Torrid summer temperatures send thousands of New Englanders to the beaches and lakes.

And the combination of the newspaper [illegible] a vacation's [illegible] the water for enjoyment and [illegible] assured.

And as a great many of these travelers are "[illegible]" A few minutes' thought would prevent most of them.

[illegible] a person who has reason to question [illegible] of the water [illegible] to give the organ the cold water test. For [illegible] only one safe bathing spot. It is the family bath tub, [illegible] warmed.

And for the majority of people, any water that rises above one's shoulders is DANGEROUS WATER. Rare indeed is the swimmer so experienced he can overcome a cramp [illegible]

Girl About Town

by Marjorie McBride

THEY'RE bankers and brokers and politicians to most of the people who know them, but Robert of the Chamber of Commerce restaurant thinks of the celebrated persons who lunch or dine there in terms of their favorite dishes. He's the headwaiter.

For instance, when he sees former Governor Joseph B. Ely he's pretty sure the order will be braised ox joints.

Rutherford Smith, representing the Savings Bank Association, can enjoy a juicy steak at any meal later than breakfast.

So can Patrick Moynihan, chairman of the Commission of Finance.

Being careful of his diet, A. Laurence Lowell prefers boiled rice and milk and cup custard at noon. Governor Hurley usually lunches on a chicken sandwich and a glass of milk. Eliot Wadsworth is another who likes his chicken sandwiches . . . Mayor Tobin favors a lamb chop and glass of milk.

P. A. O'Connell, the merchant, and Alexander Ellis, insurance executive, are strong for roast beef. Carl Dreyfus fancies brook trout. John A. Maddocks of the Executive Club is fond of chicken but wants it fried.

No matter what he has for lunch, Robert McIntyre, banker, invariably orders strawberry shortcake for dessert. Former Governor Allen contents himself with a bowl of crackers and milk with cheese for dessert.

NOT SO SIMPLE are the tastes of Robert himself. He could lunch six times a day on lobster curry, with rice . . . a dish in which the restaurant specializes.

Some of the biggest men in State Street don't seem to care much what they eat at noon, and Robert doesn't know what to make of such carelessness. That's no way to encourage a chef or a headwaiter.

A HOUSE with a real history is the one in Hilltop Center, N. H., owned by Theodore Barnes, Boston insurance broker. It is the oldest house in town. It was built by Captain Isaac Baldwin, first man to fall at Bunker Hill, for the Rev. Jonathan Barnes, an early ancestor of the present owner.

He used it as a parsonage. His son turned it into a tavern, and now Barnes sells insurance there. Very versatile, these Barneses.

JAMES B. CONNOLLY, sea writer, does his authoring between 7 and 11 in the forenoons, then lights out for the cinder track at B. C. campus. Everyone knows he was a favorite athlete.

Few remember he was the first American to win a title at the Olympic Games. It was in the hop-skip-and-jump event at Athens, and that's a long time ago, but he still likes the track men and knows as much as the average coach.

FOR SUMMER ENTERTAINING: Jordan Marsh presents tray tables that double as luggage racks, coffee tables or bars. They come in maple or walnut finish and are collapsible. Tall glasses for your favorite long, cool drink in sets of six. They come in a variety of colors. Gilchrist's store offers a wide range of pottery for serving garden parties or late evening snacks. These items are not priced over $2.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

NEEDED: in every school in America one course IN PERSONALITY ADJUSTMENT. Learning to live and work and play with others, from kindergarten through High, is the single essential of civilized behavior.

Under our present system, a young person might learn anything on earth, save the one essential requisite for a happy life: HOW TO GET ALONG WITH OTHER PEOPLE. Every year sees new novelties added to the curriculum: tap dancing, flower arrangement, window trimming, endless devices for enriching one's personal store of information and catching the elusive penny.

But where will you find a class on that most indispensable of all human arts: HOW AND WHEN TO KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT? Yet it's a safe bet that more careers have been crippled by ignorance on this subject than by all the other handicaps put together.

Elsie Robinson

Think of the various odd persons whom you know—social, domestic and industrial. The people whom everyone dodges at a party or avoids in the office. What's wrong with them? They're smart enough; capable, too. Decent, hard working, kind-hearted folk, for the most part—desperately eager for popularity and success. Yet they never quite click. Why?

BECAUSE THEY'RE SOCIAL MISFITS. THEY HAVE NEVER BEEN ADJUSTED TO THE REST OF THE HUMAN RACE AND, AS A RESULT, THEY ARE AS OUT OF PLACE IN NORMAL HUMAN GROUPS AS A FRESHLY CAPTURED ORANG-OUTANG.

There's Sam, the Boaster . . . and Gertie, the Gloom . . . Jimmy, the wise-cracker and Tillie, with the Non-Stop Tongue. Also Pete, who uses the slightest statement as grounds for a severe tirade . . . or Fred, the Know-It-All. Parlor Pantes every one of them, just about as popular as a dose of hives.

AND EACH ONE OF THEM AN ARRAIGNMENT OF OUR EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM. For few, if any of them, would have developed their irritating mannerisms if they had received proper training in their youth.

"DEFENSE Mechanisms"—that's what psychiatrists call such mannerisms. Psychological cover-ups and compensations for hurts and humiliations.

Fruitful? Yes? But also powerful pests and utterly unnecessary. No one HAS to develop an unpopular defense mechanism. And no one who is correctly informed and trained WILL develop one. We all have traits and handicaps. But we can and should learn how to manage them . . . and how to adjust ourselves harmoniously in spite of them.

And such instruction should be LESSON NO. 1 in every human life. No education is worthy of the name unless it has taught—and tested—the student's graciousness, self-control, good sportsmanship and social perception. It is not enough to merely observe and give marks on such attributes: they should be taught as definitely as Math or English.

HOW WE ACT is infinitely more important to the other fellow than WHAT WE KNOW. You may be a walking encyclopedia or animated joke book or a record-breaker in your particular line—but if you aren't also a gracious, tactful, well-controlled and comfortable human companion, no one wants you around.

GENERALLY speaking, the 1938 model of Homo Sapiens is considerably smarter, more tolerable and better informed than the 1838 edition. But in one respect he is gravely lacking, and that is in his MANNERS. We're rapidly becoming the rudest bunch of smarties and sorehead, gatherers, gripers and bullies the race has ever produced. Our home manners alone should make the jungle primates trade heavier than ever back to their lairs.

No automobile manufacturer would dream of selling a car before it had been tested and perfectly adjusted for smooth action. And no child is fit to face life until he too can give a smooth performance.

The Guilty Party

by Hugh S. Johnson

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—I know of nobody well enough informed to have an opinion who even pretends to believe with a fair degree of cooperation between government, labor and management, this depression could be turned the other way immediately. The longer the damage of the slump are so great that it seems incredible that there is not confidence, compromise and movement.

General Johnson

My old associate Donald Richberg discussed this theme with force at Detroit recently. He suggested that the barrier is the 10 per cent of intellectual failures, things and congenital troublemakers in each group. That is the symptom but not the disease.

The real trouble is that not one of these groups wholly trusts the others or believes in the protestations that a real cooperation has come that the indicated changes in old relationships must ingratiating, to be made without a change in our form of government.

Business does not wholly believe that government wants it to make reasonable profits and keep a reasonable part of them. It fears that it is administration in its heart hostile to industry as to enforce, by confiscatory taxation and arbitrary regulation some of what Mr. Roosevelt's brothers on the government staff call "production for use and not for profit"—what is Communism. Business also fears that labor has got to limit to its intended demands.

Government cherishes more than a lurking doubt that business has loyally accepted the principles of the reform laws—collective bargaining, the unhampered choice of labor of its own representatives, the social security, anti-monopoly and relief policies. The acts and attitude of several prominent die-hard industrialists give substance to that doubt; and in this lack of confidence the Administration seems unwilling to relieve its anxiousness pressure on any front.

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS, for government itself, find many points of either strain or actual resistance to its efforts to organize and represent workers in many industries. It hears strong and forthright words of defiance of New Deal labor objectives as well as methods in some of the most prominent businessmen and decides that class militancy can prevail.

You can't get cooperation in that kind of atmosphere. Every shield is up, every sword raised. It drives each group separately to the very extremes of hostility instead of to the middle ground of compromise for the common good.

For all this three groups are to blame, but one of them is clearly the most to blame. Of the three only one could assert leadership and have that leadership accepted to the point of unanimous and agreement—at least to disagree. THAT GROUP IS GOVERNMENT.

The Brighter Side

by Damon Runyon

TWO MR. JIM CUMMINGS of Arcola, Ill., we are indebted for a little scientific light on the matter of coffee, wassail of the Mocha and Java, that we spoke in this column recently.

It was our impression that the Western coffee was the result of lack of schooling in the art of coffee making among the Westerners. Mr. Cummings says that this is not so. Mr. Cummings says that the Western coffee is carefully calculated and deliberate and he kindly explains the reasons.

Runyon

He says that out West the people do not drink coffee for the taste as we do, but for the same reason that the Indian braves used to apply all manner of weird tortures to themselves to prove that they were men. Mr. Jim Cummings who seems to have made a considerable study of Western coffee, is inclined to think that it was from the Indian custom of self-torture that the Westerners first got their idea of coffee making.

Presumably the Westerners felt that they had to have some less conspicuous method of inflicting pain and suffering upon themselves than by sticking knives in their epidermis or walking on burning coals, so they hit upon the subtle torture of the coffee. Mr. Cummings says:

The Westerner acts much the same as a man able to drink a couple of Westerns rather than an amateur boxer would act as well as he would like to let Joe Louis cut loose on his chin for a few rounds without flinching.

THE SUBJECT of coffee seems to be interesting a large number of persons just now among them Mr. Arthur Kudner, the advertising man. We have before us a document from his office in New York that explains that the week of June 20th has been set aside as "Iced Coffee Week."

This occasion is under the sponsorship of the Pan American Coffee Bureau, representing six Latin-American coffee producing countries and the Associated Coffee Industries of America, representing American roasters and distributors.

We can testify that we have found that ice with some of the coffee you get out West is a splendid thing. You first inhale the coffee, then quickly swallow a large number of cubes of ice and the ice serves to relieve to some extent the pain of the coffee working on the lining of your stomach.

One Word Led to Another

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

IT'S ABOUT time for the spider to get together with the garter snake in Utica. They usually battle to a draw.

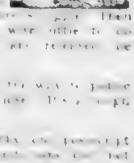
We don't know how the spider and the snake first started business in Utica. But we do know they attracted more attention than one million Upstreamers starving in high gear.

It was about 1930 that the Utica spider tossed a loop over the garter snake. It attracted so much interest that N. B. C. sent Graham McNamee up to get 'em on a long coast-to-coast stretch.

"Folks, they're off, they're neck and neck. Now, they're chin and chin. They're necking again. Now they're climbing. The spider leads with his three left legs. The snake gets tangled in the ropes. The referee separates them and he's sorry he did. They both hit the referee. The spider's round."

Until the famous fight between the Utica Kid and Young Spaghetti the spider and snake were content to be known as creepers as immediate relatives. Either one of them could make us shudder like a wanton in a burlesque. But since the fight it seems that both spider and snake have inspiration rights which must not be violated.

The contest ran several weeks and there was a picturesque air of the coliseum over the affair. Soldier sewed up the snake in a maze of gunny sack parentheses. In a fair and square [illegible] the bandsmen were able to cut broke the web and released the snake.



It shows that the world is full of sympathy as it is now. It's a tough detour.

Here's a spider and snake who don't know. The spider and snake were turned on again. The snake went at it as ever again.

Justice Pierce Burial Private

Private funeral services will be held for the Hon. Edward Peter Pierce, retired justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, who died yesterday in Brookline after an illness of several weeks. He was 85.

Justice Pierce resigned last year after 23 years of uninterrupted service on the Supreme bench. He had been judge of the superior court for 14 years.

He was a member of the class of 1877 at Harvard and a graduate of Harvard Law School.

He is survived by his widow, the former Adele Duteau, two sons, John H. of Boston and Edward P. Jr., of New York; two daughters, Miss Marie A. Pierce and Mrs. C. Oliver Wellington, both of New York, and six grandchildren.

BENJAMIN FOSTER

Word was received here today of the death in Palo Alto, Calif., of Benjamin Oliver Foster, 66, professor emeritus of commerce at Stanford University.

Foster was born in Lancaster, Mass., and studied at Boston Latin school here. In 1901 he was acting head of the business department at the University of Michigan.

JOHN A. FEENEY

PORTLAND, Me., June 23 — Rites were being arranged today for John A. Feeney, 81, father of John Ford, Hollywood motion picture director, and Francis Ford, film actor. Feeney died at his Peaks Island summer home yesterday.

FRANK W. GORSE

Masonic funeral services for Frank W. Gorse, 72, rubber thread manufacturer, pigeon fancier and former Needham town official will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Needham Methodist Church. He died at his home, 341 Hunnewell street, Needham Heights.

Gorse was born in Needham and had served as selectman and member of the town finance board.

He was well known as a pigeon expert, several times judge for shows in Crystal Palace, London. Last year he entered 20 birds in the New York show and won 20 first prizes.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Ray C. Hall and Mrs. Harold Smith both of Needham.

ARTHUR KINGSTON

BRIDGEWATER, June 23 — Funeral services for Arthur Kingston, treasurer of Trinity Episcopal Church for nine years, were held today at the church. He died at his home, 12 Hale street.

He was a past president of the Howard Union Republican Club of East Bridgewater and a member of the Old Colony Lodge of Masons.

JOHN F. NUTE

BOSTON, N. H., June 23 — John F. Nute, 70, a native of Boston, died today at his home here after a long illness. He was a retired contractor and builder. He was a member of Mount Lebanon Lodge of Masons, Boston, and Mount Horeb Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, Boston.

11 Still Lost In Train Wreck

MILES CITY, Mont., June 23 (INS)—With 38 bodies already removed from the ruins of one of the worst wrecks in American railroad history, wrecking crews today pressed their search for the 11 passengers still missing, believed dead.

The search dropped the toll of Northern Pacific Creek, 100 miles, the Milwaukee's road's fast train the Olympian plunged over Sunday into the Custer County stream, to 49.

The list of the hidden grew as the search for additional victims continued. A coroner's jury at Terry, Mont., returned a verdict, declaring no one was responsible for the tragedy.

Twenty-six of the 65 persons injured in the crash remained in hospitals today, and physicians said no one was likely to die.

Five Escape Death As Auto Overturns

TIVERTON, R. I., June 23—Five women of Little Compton High School were recovering today from injuries following an auto crash from death when their automobile overturned four times.

The machine, going 50 feet, left the road when the driver, Joseph A. Lopes, 17, of Little Compton, failed to make a curve. Others injured were: Ruth Peirce, 18; Dorothy Carr, 16; Lena Arruda, 15, and Florence Tripp, 18, all of Tiverton, and Constance Flores, 18, of Little Compton.

transverse process—a bone linked to the spine.

It was thought at first he had received two fractures near the base of the spine, but later X-ray photographs revealed only one—but this one was sufficiently serious to make rest and quiet imperative.

The beetle - browed challenger was rushed to the hospital after he had been dragged to his corner from the middle of the ring.

Rubbing his glove on his side, he gasped:

"I'm paralyzed."

It was apparent that he was badly hurt and D. Walker Wear of the boxing commission ordered him to Polyclinic for examination.

Accompanied by Joe Jacobs, his manager, and a number of bodyguards and handlers, Schmeling entered the hospital and was assigned to a private room where a veil of secrecy was drawn and orders given not to tell the nature of his injuries.

[illegible]

"I saw him this morning," said Jacobs, "and he was still suffering terribly. His injuries are very painful, but not serious.

TALKED TO WIFE

"I took him to the hospital after the fight last night and the doctors spent two hours taking X-ray pictures. The pictures show two fractured bones near the base of the spine in what is known as the transverse process. Joe Louis' right hand punch to the kidneys did that.

"They tell me Max may be able to leave the hospital within 24 hours. I'll know definitely about that after our own physician,

'Don't Worry, Max,' Says Hitler

NEW YORK, June 23 (INS)—Max Schmeling, writhing in pain from a spinal injury suffered when Joe Louis flattened him last night, today received a message from Adolf Hitler's adjutant. The message came in a telephone call and it was announced the adjutant had told him Hitler sent his condolences and told him "not to worry about anything."

Finale in Black Plush; Max Meets His Oblivion

NEW YORK, JUNE 23—MAX SCHMELING'S titular resurrection failed to come off at Joe Louis' expense in the Yankee Stadium last evening, and, after two minutes and four seconds of the most intensified mauling in major fight history, Max's male nurses tossed a towel into the ring as a symbol of surrender. The 33-year-old German was trying to raise himself from the floor. His face was a crimson splotch, his eyes were glazed and his limbs unhinged.

AUSTEN LAKE

He might have succeeded in coming erect and even weathered the 54 seconds left in the opening round, but his corner chaperones climbed under the green ropes and hauled him by his armpits to his stool, where they waved restoratives under his battered nose until his paralysis was thawed. Wisps of moist hair hung over his forehead, and his eyes swam in sockets that were more a series of pulpy hollows and hillocks than a human countenance.

So, after a short convalescence and meditation over his knees, he wobbled across the platform, looking very nauseated, but mindful of the social amenities of the occasion, and fumbled for the mittened hand of the Negro before stumbling down the ladder which led to the long lane which hath no turning—fistic oblivion.

Brutally Scientific--Gene Extols Bomber

By GENE TUNNEY
(Former undefeated heavyweight champion)

NEW YORK, June 23 — Max Schmeling did not [illegible] completely [illegible] the ring. But he [illegible] dence compared to the [illegible] Louis seemed to be [illegible] smashed at [illegible] determination.

Louis started in [illegible] and business [illegible] the only opposition [illegible] to offer. He [illegible] the latest Schmeling.

Schmeling [illegible] Louis slipped on a [illegible] straight left [illegible] was quickly [illegible] straight left [illegible] effect.

LOUIS RELENTLESS

Schmeling [illegible] was becoming [illegible] the next [illegible] right hand [illegible] of Louis jaw [illegible] effect.

The next action was a left lead by Louis [illegible] but [illegible] There [illegible] which Schmeling [illegible] by a wide [illegible] pumping his left with telling effect.

The next to final attack was a straight left [illegible] left hook, followed by a murderous right which landed on the upper side of Schmeling's jaw. Schmeling staggered under the blow.

Another volley and Schmeling stepped himself over the ropes. His favorite hard [illegible] to hold him [illegible] he hard [illegible] great stead. [illegible] had kept Louis [illegible] other occasions [illegible] opponents. [illegible] once about [illegible] with his right hand. [illegible] saved him [illegible] Louis

Gene Tunney

[illegible] Louis was relentless almost murderous, but brutally scientific. [illegible]

The towel came from Schmeling's corner, not sooner than necessary but soon enough in the event his instinct brought him to his feet to face another barrage of the most destructive hitting I have ever seen in an important contest.

MAX'S FAULTS

Unfortunately, Schmeling offered no resistance in the way of scientific defense. His feet were spread at least four feet apart and, accordingly he could not move to or out.

He was [illegible] Louis' bombs and could [illegible] move inside [illegible]

I have always [illegible] this chance about Schmeling and this match proved another thing to me.

In order to defeat a hard hitter, one must make him miss. Schmeling's head [illegible] throws at him. He [illegible] year ago was [illegible]

Louis is the first important fighter I know of to turn the tables completely on an opponent who once knocked him out. He fought courageously, intelligently and I might add murderously.

Man at Work Pushing Leather . . . Fast

HERE'S HOW—Remarkable photo taken as Champion Joe Louis was putting the finishing touches on Challenger Max Schmeling last night. Note the left arm being pulled back for another crusher, the right-hand connection with the Uhlan's jaw, the look of paint on the beaten man's face and the strained neck muscles of the champion . . . a man at work.

Revenge Sweet To Bomber

By DAMON RUNYON

NEW YORK, June 23 (INS)—"Ah'll knock Smellin' out in two rounds," solemnly announced sleepy-eyed, brown-skinned Joe Louis the other day.

[illegible] Then he crosses himself up and [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

MR. BOSTON

Ex-Garden Chief Dies at Ringside

Robert Plans To Turn Boxer

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, JUNE 23 —WEATHER CONDITIONS for the Louis-Schmeling bout were perfect.

There were threats of showers late in the afternoon, but by the time the first of the fans arrived at the Yankee Stadium the sky was clear.

Mr. Boston

Gen. John Phelan of the New York athletic commission was one of the first to arrive at the ringside . . . The General dropped over to say hello to me . . . The General was pleased at the fine setup of seats in the Temple of Ruth, and said he hoped the newspaper photographers didn't keep hopping up in the way of the sports writers trying to watch the action in the ring while they dictated detailed stories of the championship battle over the telegraph wires . . . There were 500 press representatives parked in the working press . . . They came from all parts of the world to see Louis and Schmeling trade blows . . . There were international radio hook-ups on the bout that drew such a tremendous crowd in a depression period.

Mike Jacobs was able to forget the cost of production as he paraded along the ringside and looked over the huge gathering . . . It was the largest crowd to see a bout in New York since Jack Dempsey fought Jack Sharkey in the same ring 10 years ago . . . It was a parade of champions at the ringside . . . Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney and Jimmy Braddock put in their appearance.

There was an abundance of Louis money which was offered at odds of 11 to 5 shortly before the big fellow entered the ring . . . There was one big bettor, Joe Cox of Ohio, who wagered $10,000 on Louis at the last minute . . . Another Ohio bookmaker took time out to wager $100 against $200 that the Red Sox will win the American League pennant.

Jimmy Johnston was around declaring Bob Pastor could beat either Louis or Schmeling, and that he was prepared to prove his contention in the ring . . . Al McCoy dropped down to the ringside, and didn't show any marks from his recent tussle with Pastor . . . McCoy is convinced inactivity caused his defeat . . . He will box every three or four weeks from now on and is confident that in a return bout with Pastor he will be able to even the score . . . Yvon Robert, the wrestler, is talking about turning boxer, and there is a possibility that he will clash with McCoy in a Montreal ring.

THE BLEACHER [illegible] were the first to fall . . . The [illegible] trade were [illegible] . . . The [illegible] was a who's who in sport with all the [illegible] . . . Joe Tinney went [illegible] and [illegible] the excellent [illegible] . . . It was necessary to show tickets to get through the [illegible] to many of the [illegible] . . . This avoided unnecessary [illegible] . . . [illegible] was a pleasant [illegible] crowd.

Tony Galento was at the bout in the role of a sports expert . . . He decided that a few beers at his tavern in Newark would be beneficial to both Louis and Schmeling . . . Galento says he has started training for his Philadelphia bout with John Henry Lewis.

The latter event [illegible] will give the fat boy a boxing lesson . . . Joe Jacobs, manager of Galento, predicts a win for his protege and not a $150,000 gate . . . The [illegible] started . . . Jim Eustace in charge of the sale of the seats at the Stadium and formerly handled [illegible] at the Polo Grounds dropped dead there Louis later the same [illegible] . . . Tucked with Jim at the ill-fated [illegible] was Jack Dempsey, who was personally interested in sports in Boston . . . It was Jim Farley who brought Jim to Boston from Detroit . . . Farley [illegible] went to the New York Giants and then joined forces with Mike Jacobs . . . When Louis and Schmeling fought two years ago Tom O'Rourke, veteran fight manager dropped dead . . . [illegible] . . . [illegible] for all persons connected with the ring.

while his [illegible] stricken [illegible] who [illegible] to sit on his sorrow. He appeared for [illegible] stood [illegible] the manly privilege of [illegible] and [illegible] Braddock had stayed to drain the last [illegible] of his cup at Yankee Stadium a year ago in Chicago.

I don't know whether Ancon [illegible] will take that jewel as a slur on Nordic supremacy, but he [illegible] Schmeling himself has [illegible] did the same. If [illegible] . . . The [illegible] of his crushed spirit are too full of unfathomable [illegible] with which [illegible] and [illegible] focused eyes as the [illegible] for comfort. It was [illegible] name to be added.

Max might have [illegible] . . . [illegible] and [illegible] for the remaining 54 seconds [illegible] . . . Tom O'Rourke [illegible] fight manager dropped dead . . . [illegible] . . . [illegible] for all persons connected with the ring.

Max might have come up for another crack [illegible] just as inevitably as when he had [illegible] Louis at the end of June 19, 1936, with the lethal tenacity of a lone [illegible], a Chinatown goose he would have succumbed to the [illegible].

True, the dictates of valor insisted that he should and, as far as Schmeling was concerned, I think he preferred to go out with his head in the little black bag. But the dictates of caution prompted his trainer and friend, Max Machon to [illegible] jewel no doubt on the theory that he had already taken $200,000 worth of chopping, which is approximately Max's end, minus debts and taxes.

• So, the world's heavyweight bauble is made safe for the U. S. A. and thus ends the latest fiasco in the unillustrious annals of the prize ring.

As for Louis, he fought the savage, devastating type of battle that was expected of him two years ago.

As for Schmeling—well, one can't feel sorry for $200,000, even though earned at the cost of two lavender eyes and a rumpled visage. $200,000 buys a lot of surgical plaster and iodine.

Max's Wife in Tears

BERLIN, June 23 (AP)—Germany took the news hard today that Joe Louis' fists had blasted Max Schmeling's comeback hopes in a little more than two minutes.

Thousands of heavy-lidded Germans went to bed after 3 a. m. after sitting up to hear a ringside radio broadcast of the heavyweight championship fight that left them thunderstruck and unbelieving.

Those who did not sit up scarcely believed what they saw in the newspapers.

Anny Ondra, movie actress-wife of "Unser Max," broke into tears when her secretary told her of the first-round knockout.

She had been allowed to sleep while a maid waited up to hear the result.

ALL SYMPATHY

Schmeling's friends said their only comment was to echo what the German announcer said at the end of his broadcast from New York:

"We sympathize with you, Max, although you lost as a fair sportsman.

"We will show you on your return that reports in foreign papers that you would be thrown into jail if you lost are untrue."

The newspaper Zwoelf Uhr-Blatt charged "certain American business men" should be blamed for Schmeling's defeat. It said they "hindered the fight to the point where . . . only a miracle would enable Schmeling to win."

"Three opponents who stepped into the ring against him this time" were too much for Schmeling, conqueror of Joe Louis in 12 rounds two years ago, the paper explained.

They were "Louis, age and the legend that they never come back."

Seabiscuit's Jockey's Leg Broken

Schmeling Spine Injured by Blow

Dr. Emery Brennan, examines him today."

Later Dr. Brennan issued the following bulletin:

"Schmeling has suffered a fracture of the transverse processes of the third and fourth lumbar vertebrae, with a hemorrhage on the lumbar muscles.

"Progress is favorable."

After he talked over long distance early today with his wife, Anna Ondra of the German films, and a Nazi official, Schmeling was given a hypodermic and rested quietly for awhile. This afternoon, however, he was in pain and dozed fitfully.

Thus Schmeling lay today in the same setting—across the street from Madison Square Garden—where Ernie Schaaf died after being knocked out by Primo Carnera in 1933, and where Carnera came to the end of the pugilistic trail with temporary paralysis after being smashed to a knockout by Lee Haynes in 1936.

Immediately after he cried he had been paralyzed, the German's handlers set up a cry of "foul," but Referee Arthur Donovan disputed the claim, insisting that all of Louis' blows were legal in every respect.

The foul, according to Schmeling, was a blow that Louis landed to his kidney just before the first knockdown, and Schmeling claims that the punch paralyzed him.

But nowhere in the huge press gathering was there to be found anybody who saw such a punch that might have caused such a result. And while kidney punches are technically illegal, nevertheless a fighter who is physically fit is always prepared for just such blows, which are landed on numerous occasions in a hard, gruelling fight.

DID MAXIE QUIT

What the customers in the choice pews did think, though, was that Schmeling had quit, but in my opinion there is no doubt but that he was knocked down and the victim of a severe lacing even though the fight lasted only a little over two minutes.

After boxing cautiously for 30 seconds, Louis became a terrific fighting man. The champion crashed a barrage of left and right hand blows to Schmeling's head which hurt the German.

Louis was quick to sense he had Schmeling in trouble and stepped back and drove a terrific left hook to Schmeling's jaw. There was great driving power behind the blow and as Schmeling sagged under it, Louis whipped his right hand to the jaw.

Schmeling dropped to the canvas and as the time keeper started to toll the count the German struggled to get up. Schmeling was back fighting before the full count and out loose with his famous right hand punch.

BLOW WILD

The blow was wild, and Louis stepped in quickly with another left hook to the jaw. The champion's punch landed cleanly, spun Schmeling around and dropped his head on the top rope.

Schmeling looked out toward the crowd. He was helpless and dazed. Louis had the right, if he wished to exercise it, to step in, turn Schmeling around and punch him. Louis acted the part of a true sportsman and did not do this. Instead he waited for Schmeling to regain fighting position.

Quick as a cat, Louis stepped forward, whipped his left hook to the jaw and then crashed his right to the point of the chin.

Schmeling dropped to the canvas as if shot. But once again in his dazed condition he got up without taking the benefit of the full count.

Louis, cool and in charge of the situation, measured Schmeling for the finishing blows. Once more Louis sent a left hook to the jaw and then crashed a right to the same spot to send the German to the canvas.

As Schmeling went down, a towel came flying from his corner as a token of defeat. Under the rules of the New York Athletic Commission, a second has no right to stop a bout.

The referee, Arthur Donvan, took a quick glance at the prostrate Schmeling and saw that the German was in no condition to continue the bout. Donovan immediately halted the contest and declared Louis the winner.

Max Machon and Doc Casey carried Schmeling to his corner while a jubilant group of seconds surrounded Louis. Louis was as stolid in victory as when he entered the ring.

ARMSTRONG'S STYLE

Louis fought an aggressive fight. He disregarded his usual counter style of boxing and took full advantage of his youth and terrific punching power.

He punched with greater fury and persistency than he has in any of his previous starts. Joe was sincere in his pre-battle statement that he would knock Schmeling out inside of two rounds.

Louis' end of the purse will amount to about $350,000 while Schmeling's cut is about $200,000.

Insisting that a punch in the kidney was instrumental in his defeat, Schmeling cried in his dressing room, "I want another chance at Louis. I am entitled to a return bout because I proved I could knock him out once before."

Schmeling knocked out Louis in 12 rounds two years ago.

Berlin Hears Max in Grave Condition

BERLIN, June 23 (INS)—A rumor that Max Schmeling is in "critical condition" as the result of his knockout by Joe Louis reached here this afternoon. Origin of the report was not known.

Pollard Thrown In Spin

By BILL SMITH

The chances of Seabiscuit winning the Massachusetts Handicap and beating the great War Admiral were dealt a severe blow when Jockey Red Pollard suffered a broken leg while exercising the juvenile, Modern Youth, at Suffolk Downs early this morning.

Red was astride Modern Youth as the two-year-old neared an open gate near the stables. The horse became uncontrollable, darted through the opening, hit a pole and threw Pollard to the ground.

Only after all the exercise boys and swipes in the area were put into service was the horse captured.

Pollard was rushed to the Carney Hospital where attending physicians said the ailing jockey would be grounded for at least two months if he ever was to ride again.

Red Pollard has ridden Seabiscuit to many triumphs and experts claim that it is only when Red is riding that Seabiscuit shows his best effort.

C. S. Howard's great handicap performer lost the services of Pollard during the Santa Anita Handicap and many are of the opinion that Georgie Woolf, who rode the Biscuit in that big race, failed to ride like the capable Pollard. Pollard, they say, would have got Seabiscuit up in time to beat Stagehand for the big purse.

With the running of the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap only six days away, the jinx that has been dogging the footsteps of C. S. Howard and his great champion seems to be stronger than ever.

Seabiscuit, with Pollard riding, has been burning up the East Boston strip in recent workouts and his stock soared upward.

Midget Match Race In Medford Oval

New England's kings of midget auto racing will be seen in a series of midget auto races to be held on the newly-constructed Riverside Park speedway in Medford tomorrow night.

Fans will see and hear the screaming, slithering midgets driven by Bob King, the Waltham flash who somersaulted his car last Monday night and escaped unscathed, and Rufe Anderson from Nashua, will engage in a match race.

Blow-by-Blow

NEW YORK, June 23 (INS)—Blow-by blow description of Joe Louis-Max Schmeling bout:

ROUND ONE

They met in middle of the ring. Louis landed three fast left jabs to face. Louis landed left hook to temple and took hard right to chin in return. Schmeling was short with right to temple. Louis continued to move in as Max retreated around ring. They moved in close and dug hard blows to body. Louis stung Schmeling with left and hard straight right. Schmeling was dropped by a hard right and came up without a count. He was downed by another hard right. Another right to chin dropped the German. Donovan waved Louis aside.

Red Pollard Breaks Leg

SEABISCUIT will have a new rider when he takes the chute in the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap on June 29. Red Pollard, who was to have had the mount on the C. S. Howard horse, suffered a broken leg this morning when he was thrown by a two-year-old. Pollard only recently recovered from a broken collarbone on the West Coast, which forced him out of the Santa Anita derby, where he had the mount on the winner, Seabiscuit. Because of his age, doctors figure the veteran jockey, who is considered one of the greatest in the game, will be out of racing two months

Navy Counting On Bullard

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 23 (AP)—Eastern hopes for a victory over Washington and California in the intercollegiate regatta Monday appear to depend to a large degree upon one man—G. C. Bullard of Navy.

Bullard is No. 2 on the Navy varsity, which looks to be the strongest Eastern entry, although Cornell and Syracuse are rated as possible "dark horses." He missed several days' drills because of an attack of ptomaine poisoning, suffered just before the midshipmen left Annapolis, but was back in the boat yesterday.

Coach Buck Walsh won't commit himself on whether Bullard will row Monday, but if he doesn't, Walsh will have to break up his jayvee combination to provide a substitute and thus injure the chances of both boats.

The Wisconsin eight, which has been working harder than any of its rivals here, has begun to show great improvement and now ranks with Syracuse as one likely to spring a surprise.

Dale Alexander Threatens to Quit

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 23—Dale Alexander, first baseman, who led American League hitters while playing with Boston Red Sox in 1932, says he will quit before he reports to Dallas of the Texas League.

Budge Advances In Tilt

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 23 (AP)—Don Budge, looking for the first time like the champion he is, moved into the fourth round of the All-England tennis championships today with a 6—0, 7—5, 6—1 victory over G. Lyttleton Rogers, lanky Irish star.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan and Alice Marble, members of the U. S. Wightman Cup team, advanced in the mixed doubles, defeating Jadwiga Jedrezjowska of Poland and Mrs. M. A. Thomas of England, 7—5, 6—3, in a second-round match.

Budge gave up only one point in the first three games as he blanked the giant Irishman in the first set. He drove over three service aces in the fourth game and won the last two after being down love-40.

Rogers put up a better fight in the second set, but the American Davis Cup ace withstood seven service aces to win. Pounding the ball from his height of 6 feet 7 inches, the Irishman broke Budge's service in the first and fifth games, but Don came up from 15-40 to take Rogers' services in the sixth and 12th games.

The world champion swung back in stride in the third set, however, allowing Rogers only 13 points and one game.

MISS JACOBS WINS

Helen Jacobs, former American and Wimbledon champion who collapsed yesterday, came out looking pale, but she managed to defeat Joan Ingram of England after a terrific struggle in the first set. The scores were 9—7, 6—3.

MEN'S SINGLES

Don Budge, Los Angeles, Cal., defeated G. Lyttleton Rogers, Ireland, 6—0, 7—5, 9—7.

Franz Kukuljevic, Yugoslavia, defeated Lawrence Nelson, Los Angeles, 6—1, 6—1, 6—4.

Frano Puncec, Yugoslavia, defeated Owen Anderson, Hollywood, Cal., 7—5, 9—7, 4—6, 3—6, 9—8.

Ladislaus Hecht, Czechoslovakia, defeated Nigs Sharpe, England, 6—3, 6—4, 5—7, 9—7.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES

Dorothy Andrus, New York, and Sylvia Henrotin, France, defeated Joan Hartigan and Miss M. Wilson, England, 8—10, 6—0, 8—6.

Fred James and Kay Stammers, Great Britain, defeated Margaret Lumb and Miss B. Lumb, Great Britain, 6—3, 6—4.

Sarah Palfrey Fabyan and Alice Marble, United States, defeated Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, Poland, and Mrs. M. A. Thomas, Great Britain, 7—5, 9—3.

Medwick, Riddle 'Buddies'

By WALTER KILEY

With all Branch Rickey's far flung "Chain Store" farm system, with more than a thousand ball players to pick from, it does seem strange that the Cardinals can't field a better unit than the "sieve" outfit which Frankie Frisch has on his hands at the moment.

Here's a team turning absurd fielding lapses almost daily, four of them in each of the two games played with the Bees.

Yet as the season opened, Rickey, as speaker before a large dinner audience, stated emphatically:

"This is the best team we ever had in St. Louis. We should win the pennant."

No wonder Manager Frankie Frisch goes around with a long face.

Joe Medwick has been most docile at bat ever since the day in St. Louis when Johnny Riddle went after him. The great home run champion has just slid in safely under Riddle on a four-ply wallop off the centerfield fence. As he got up from the ground he threw dirt at Riddle and struck out at the Bees' catcher with bared spikes.

Riddle, who did a bit of fighting as a schoolboy, fought to get at Medwick, but the umpires and other players held him. The next time up Medwick apologized, which looked like pure good sense. Riddle has a reputation for minding his own business, but once started he's none to fool with.

* * *

If Gene Moore's knee doesn't respond shortly an operation similar to the one which seems to be working out well in the case of "Tweet" Walsh will be attempted.

Regardless of the fortunes of Sebastian Sisti, the Buffalo schoolboy sensation now with Hartford, President Bob Quinn will not bring him up this year.

"The kid may be going well at this moment. But he's only 17, has a lot of knowledge to gain, and it would mean his ruin if we were to rush him."

* * *

Stengel will not use Johnny Cooney as pitcher, as he had earlier indicated unless he has to.

"Cooney is of too much value as a fielder," he says. "He might hurt his arm pitching, and we'd suffer without him, defensively."

Gil English may replace Max West in left field at any moment now. Deb Garms has cropped up with one costly error in each of three successive games. Frankie Frisch insisted he was just having fun when he played the Wednesday game under protest. The protest involved around Vince DiMaggio's fifth homer of the season, a ball which struck off a centerfield bleacherite's hands and bounded back into Ducky Medwick's glove on the field.

* * *

No game tomorrow, the Pirates opening here Saturday and playing a Sunday doubleheader. Saturday is "Ladies' Day."

* * *

Frisch benched Johnny Mize for Padgett at first, because the home run star of 1937 wasn't hitting. But Padgett has been hitless in seven times up here in Boston. Enos Slaughter, too, has been unable to connect for a hit. Bobby Reis doing a particularly artistic job on him.

* * *

Catcher Heinie Mueller of the Bees likes nothing better than to peg out Don Gutteridge on a steal attempt as happened in the eighth. They are first cousins and played together in their school days at Pittsburgh, Kans.

10,000 Dance, Sing In Detroit Harlem

DETROIT, June 23—Negro residents of "Paradise Valley" danced and sang in roped-off streets far into the morning after they learned of Joe Louis' triumph over Max Schmeling.

Police said there were at least 10,000 in the happy crowd.

Reis' Hurling B's Highlight

By WALTER KILEY

"It's always darkest before the dawn," Ol' Case Stengel optimistically opined as followers of the Bees were in deep lamentation over the wreckage of his pitching staff.

The darkness came with the casualties of Danny MacFayden and Mil Shoffner, two of his mound dependables.

Now it looks as though the foxy Swarm manager knew whereof he spoke. Because 28-year-old Bobby Reis, by the quality of his hurling against the Cards in the second game of the series, brought the first real smiles of contentment seen around the Beehive in weeks.

Reis was at one time a mighty good pitcher. He won more than half the games he hurled in National League surroundings. But since his arrival in Boston from Brooklyn two years ago, his real value has been in utility roles.

There's just about nothing the fellow can't do. He's played shortstop and left field and acquitted himself well in both positions.

He's delivered in the pinches as a hitter, and he could go in there and catch if he had to.

Bobby Reis

All year long Stengel has insisted that the day would come when both Reis and Johnny Cooney would get a chance to pitch.

Reis' time came when Ira Hutchinson was blasted out of the box in the third inning of the game with the Cards, Reis rushing in with the bases loaded, one gone, Pepper Martin and Don Gutteridge, dangerous batters, waiting their turn at the plate.

Bobby stepped up and without blinking retired both of them, left those runners stranded and then went on through 6 2-3 innings, allowing only three hits, and striking out five of the "Mudcats" in as pretty a performance as has been seen at the orchard all season.

The fellow was cool and collected, even at most critical moments, and not at all phased by the unfamiliar surroundings. He broke out a low curve and a wicked drop ball which had the Card sluggers baffled.

So Reis is now added to the starting regulars, Jim Turner, Lou Fette and Johnny Lanning, who, along with Dick Errickson, Ira Hutchinson, Tommy Reis and Art Kenney will try to carry through successfully until the hoped for return of MacFayden some 10 days from now.

Stengel is frankly gambling today when he starts Errickson. The freshman, via Scranton, has shown Stengel enough to warrant giving him a chance at opening a game, now than conditions force such a measure.

With an off day tomorrow, and with Errickson surviving, Lanning will get Saturday's call, Turner and Fette in Sunday's doubleheader against the Pirates.

Hutchinson, who has gone in as relief pitcher and carried on well, has been tried three times and found wanting in all when given a starting oppotrunity.

Roy Henshaw, the little hurler Judge Landis ordered returned to the Cards when Branch Rickey insisted on farming him out to Rochester, goes against the Bees in the rubber game.

Sox Send Marcum to Slab To Even Count With Tigers

DETROIT, Mich., June 23—For all the faltering and stumbling the New York Yankees have done on their current western invasion, the Red Sox continue to regard the McCarthy men as the gang to beat for the 1938 flag and will be content as long as they can remain in front of the champs.

The Croninmen just can't see the Indians staying on top. In fact, the Boston boys think the Tigers, with whom they conclude a four-game series this afternoon, will eventually prove more dangerous than the present pace-setters.

And this isn't a case of the wish being father to the thought. The Fenway flock has sound reason for its belief. For it has won five games in seven starts against the Indians and has lost one more decision than it has gained in competition with the Yanks and Tigers to date.

Maybe the Yawkey yeomen will feel differently about it after their three-game engagement in Cleveland, starting Friday, but at the moment the league-leaders are the least of their worries.

The Sox-Tigers series was all even as the mid-week fray started. With Robert Moses Grove out there seeking his 12th victory, the Croninmen were a cocky lot. But not for long.

Ol' Mose, who ordinarily has a breeze against the Cochrane crew, had nothing to fool the Bengal on this occasion. He was whacked for five runs in the very first stanza.

So, taking his second defeat of the year with him, he retired after the third to save his energy for his next start in Cleveland on Sunday.

And Vernon Kennedy, Tiger ace, went on to succeed in his fourth try for win No. 10 by a score of 8 to 2.

With a little luck, Grove might have escaped being scored on in that opening stanza. If Joe Cronin had been able to pick up a Rogell grounder and "Pinky" Higgins could have held on to a Pete Fox smash, the Tigers wouldn't have counted.

As it was, Rogell registered after Gehringer had singled and York had doubled. Then, after Fox reached and rescued another run, up stepped "Hank" Greenberg to lift his 17th homer into the stands.

Jimmy Foxx

However, it must be admitted that Mose didn't have his stuff, which probably is not to be wondered at when it is remembered that he was starting with only a three-day rest after having been forced to bear down for 12 innings to nose out the White Sox last Saturday.

As Grove's three-game win streak snapped, so did "Pinky" Higgins' string of 12 straight hits. Mike was stopped on his first time at bat when he missed a third strike.

But James Emory Foxx kept the Sox in the news by regaining the lead in the major league home run race with his 20th circuit-drive of the season, which also was his 76th run batted in.

What the Stars Did

(By the Associated Press)

MEL HARDER, JOHNNY HUMPHRIES and JOHNNY ALLEN, Indians—Harder and Humphries combined in pitching eight-hit 3-1 opening victory over Yankees; Allen hurled four-hitter to win second game, 7-1.

SAM CHAPMAN, Athletics—Hit triple and double, driving in two runs, in 7-1 victory over Browns.

JOE MEDWICK, Cardinals—Clouted homer and triple to send home three runs as Cards beat Boston, 4-2.

HENRY STEINBACHER, White Sox—Hit safely six times to plate, tying modern major league record, in 16-3 triumph over Senators.

SAM LESLIE, Giants—His single with bases full in eighth drove in winning runs against Cincinnati.

Harvard Announces $4,776,386 Gifts

President James Bryant Conant announced today that Harvard, in the past year, had received gifts of $4,776,386.26, a low figure for the oldest university in America.

This year's total of gifts was in constrast to the record of $14,421,755 set up in 1931, and last year's second largest list, which totaled $11,534,058.38.

What he characterized as "pressure groups" driving against Harvard were hit at sharply by President Conant in his address to alumni as he awarded degrees in course to 2200 graduates and 13 honorary degrees to persons in wide-assorted fields.

One honor degree went to Walt Disney, who has made the world laugh and cry with his Mickey Mouse and "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Others were to notables of three nations, including a member of the Swedish Senate, the governor-general of Canada, university and college heads and John Wharf, the oted Boston artist.

President Conant's reply was made in answer to criticisms leveled at the age-old school during the past 18 months.

Concluding it, the Harvard president said he did not believe there could be any dissent from Harvard's policies "by those who examined the issue coolly."

'Bid 'Em Up' Optimism Brings New Stock Surge

NEW YORK, June 23 (AP)—The "bulls" had everything their own way again today in the stock market as prices of leading issues advanced $1 to $5 a share in the fourth consecutive day of "bid 'em up" optimism.

The demand for stocks was so heavy that at one time, at the height of the mid-day rally, the ticker tape was six minutes behind.

Shortly before the noon hour the rally started, after a slight decline in early morning trading caused by cashing of profits made the first three days of the week.

Three days of reports of better business outlook, an estimate of increased carloadings for the week, and another increase in the price of lead and advances in rubber, copper and hide futures, contributed to the more optimistic attitude of traders.

FREIGHT SHIPS SOLD

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 23 (AP)—The New Haven Railroad announced today that the federal court had authorized sale of two freight boats of the New England Steamship Company to H. W. Barley of New York city for $35,000.
